Is There a Doctor in the House?...Not Quite

(EDITOR'S NOTE — The general practitioner, once the mainstay of the medical profession, is nearing extinction in these days of specialization. But nowhere is the disappearance of the family doctor felt more than in America's rural communities. The extent of the local doctor shortage is detailed in the first of this two-part series by Daily Freeman reporter Jon Powers.)

KINGSTON
There's an acute shortage of doctors in many of Ulster County's rural communities, and it's not likely that the situation will soon improve.

The reasons are many and varied, but they all point to one undeniable fact: the attractions of an urban practice far outweigh whatever benefits there exist in an isolated country office.

As a result, 80 of Ulster County's 119 practicing physicians have homes or offices in Kingston. In the immediate Kingston area, there is one doctor for every 300 patients; in the outlying regions of the county, the ratio is one to 3,000.

With so many physicians concentrated in the Kingston area, it is only natural that more distant communities will suffer. As an example, the neighboring towns of Hardenburgh and Denning do not have a single community doctor.

The Town of Shandaken is similarly affected. It has but one general practitioner to serve the medical needs of its 3,000 residents.

Although the doctor shortage appears most serious in these three instances, other communities, as well, have been affected by the exodus of general practitioners to the city. But the problem is not as severe because other nearby communities at least have adequate medical facilities.

An example is the Town of Olive, which does not have a single resident doctor, but which is near enough to Kingston and Woodstock to receive adequate protection.

Residents of the Town of Rochester, as well, must travel outside their immediate area for medical coverage. Doctors in Stone Ridge, Ellenville and Kingston receive most of Rochester's patients.

Special

For these particular communities, the doctor shortage problem may be little more than an annoying inconvenience, but that is still a very important consideration for the elderly, poor and disabled. There are certainly instances — but no statistics that can be offered as proof — where persons in these categories may forego medical attention simply because there are no doctors nearby.

If only for that reason, then, the local doctor shortage has assumed something close to crisis proportions. And many locales are acutely aware of the urgent need for accessible medical facilities.

Saugerties is just one community that is trying — without much success — to attract reinforcements for overworked neighborhood doctors. Three general practitioners are available to serve more than 20,000 potential patients in the Saugerties area, a situation that has prompted the village board to actively solicit for additional doctors.

Letters have been written to interns, medical students and various medical societies promoting the possibilities that exist for private practice in Saugerties — all to no avail. The village has even considered constructing its own medical building, complete with equipment, and offering the facility rent-free to new doctors willing to make their home in Saugerties.

People in Greene County had the same idea several years ago. Residents from four towns in the Lexington-Windham area built and equipped a $40,000 medical facility, and then threw in a $35,000 rent-free house to boot, in hopes of attracting a new doctor to the area. The house and office stand vacant today.

There's no doubt that most doctors, for whatever personal or professional reasons, prefer to do business in at least a reasonably populated area. New Paltz, with some 16,000 residents, has nine physicians. The 15,000 people who live in the Wawarsing area are serviced by ten doctors, plus a fully equipped and staffed hospital, Lloyd, Marlboro and Plattekill, with 17,000 residents, have five local doctors, and extensive medical facilities just minutes away in Poughkeepsie.

All this has left the country communities high and dry. In all but a few instances, efforts to recruit working physicians to these areas have failed miserably. So rural families are depending more and more on neighborhood ambulance squads and hospital emergency rooms in distant cities — and a large segment of the population of the richest and most advanced nation on earth are forced to exist with only minimal medical protection.

Accuses Hanoi of Violating Exchange Agreement

U.S. Asks for Immediate POW Release

WASHINGTON (AP) — The White House today accused Hanoi of violating a prisoner exchange agreement with the United States and called on North Vietnam to release immediately at least 120 more American POWs.

North Vietnam announced earlier today that it was suspending the release of American POWs until the United States and South Vietnam honored all parts of the cease-fire agreement.

Bui Tin, the spokesman for the North Vietnamese delegation in Saigon, indicated that the Communists particularly wanted the release of civilian prisoners held by the South Vietnamese and an end to harassment of the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong members of the Joint Military Commission.

The U.S. delegation to the commission said the North Vietnamese had told it "the obstacle to the release of POWs on time is a technical one—related to the availability of liaison flights between Saigon and Hanoi."

A U.S. spokesman said North Vietnam "has declined to accept a U.S. offer of a C130 as an interim solution to the immediate liaison problem."

Fighting persists in South Vietnam. Laos and Cambodia one month after cease-fire. Story and photo of returning POWs on page 3.

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong have released 163 American prisoners, but 422 others are still captive in North and South Vietnam and Laos. The United States had expected about 140 to be released today, the halfway point between the cease-fire Jan. 28 and the March 28 deadline for release of all American POWs and withdrawal of all American forces from Vietnam.

A four-page statement from the U.S. delegation called on North Vietnam and the Viet Cong's Provisional Revolutionary Government "to implement the obligations they have accepted in the Paris agreement and protocols and to take immediate action to fulfill their commitment to release U.S. POWs in accordance with the withdrawal rate of U.S. and free world forces.

"This withdrawal has now reached over 50 per cent of those forces which were in South Vietnam on Jan. 23, 1973, when the agreement came into effect. It is time for the Democratic Republic of Vietnam and the Provisional Revolutionary Government delegations to fulfill their commitment to release U.S. POWs."

The U.S. statement accused North Vietnam of "saying different things to different audiences in attempting to explain the delay in the release of POWs, as provided for in the Paris agreement and protocols."

In Paris, officials at the foreign ministers' conference to insure the Vietnam peace agreement expressed concern and dismay over the North Vietnamese announcement. Secretary of State William P. Rogers was reported studying the situation, but there was no immediate comment from him.

Some U.S. sources in Saigon viewed the Hanoi move as a propaganda ploy aimed at the international conference in Paris, an attempt to portray the Communists as the stalwarts of peace and the United States and South Vietnam as the saboteurs of the agreement.

Some U.S. officials said privately the Americans probably would not be "terribly reactive" because the main interest was in getting the American prisoners back and "not getting caught up in the game" with Hanoi.

This is one of the points for which the Communists assailed the United States.

"We have the impression that the United States has not correctly carried out all of its functions of the peace agreement as promised," Tin said. "They have given the impression that they only care about the return of their prisoners and not about the other problems. They take only those clauses of the agreement which are to their advantage."

"We are only asking that all parties respect all the clauses. The failure to do this has put the Joint Military Commission at an impasse. The United States is responsible for the total application of the agreement."

Tin said the North Vietnamese decision was telephoned by Hanoi's chief delegate to the Joint Military Commission, Maj. Gen. Le Quang Hoa, to the senior U.S. representative, Maj. Gen. Gilbert H. Woodward, and the South Vietnamese member, Lt. Gen. Du Quoc Dong.

However, a U.S. spokesman said Hoa told Woodward he "had various problems and we were not told that a decision had been made not to release the prisoners."

"There was no detailed explanation as to why the prisoner exchange had not taken place," the spokesman added.

A Search for a Lasting Peace Continues

PARIS (UPI) — North Vietnam said today it has reached agreement with the United States on many points but acknowledged there were still major differences about how to guarantee a lasting peace in Vietnam.

North Vietnamese Foreign Minister Nguyen Duy Trinh told a 13-party conference on Vietnam: "In the drafting of a declaration to be submitted to the conference, (North) Vietnam and the United States have reached agreement on many points, but there still remains disagreement on a number of major points."

Trinh demanded the conference adopt a declaration spelling out specific steps to be taken against any country violating the cease-fire.

He said his country "proposes that the International Conference mention in the declaration measures to be taken in case of violations jeopardizing peace, independence, sovereignty, unity and territorial integrity of Vietnam and the South Vietnamese people's right to self-determination."

Today's session lasted an hour and 55 minutes.

A U.S. spokesman said there would be no session Wednesday so more time could be devoted to work on drafting the final declaration containing the guarantees.

He denied the absence of a session had any connection with the stalling of prisoner-of-war exchanges in Vietnam.

The conference brought together foreign ministers from 11 nations and the Viet Cong, and U.N. Secretary General Kurt Waldheim, in talks aimed at guaranteeing the Jan. 27 peace pact.

As the remaining ministers delivered their speeches today, a drafting committee met a few doors down from the main conference salon and worked on the joint declaration containing the guarantees, which ministers hope to sign Friday.

A draft was submitted to the committee—representing all 13 participants—by Hanoi and Washington, who have been working on a document for several weeks outside the conference.

In speeches today, the Soviet Union rejected Canada's demand for truce supervision machinery and Britain said practical means might be found of ensuring the cease fire success, but this was up to the ex-enemies.

Taking part in the meeting are the four ex-belligerents—the United States, North and South Vietnam and the Viet Cong, U.N. Security Council permanent members China, the Soviet Union, Britain and France, the four truce powers—Canada, Poland, Hungary and Indonesia and Waldheim. The Hanoi minister said refusal to recognize the Provisional Revolutionary Government of South Vietnam—the Viet Cong—was one of the major problems snagging agreement.

"The greatest difficulty now lies in the fact that a number of circles do not want to recognize the existence of the PRG, although it had diplomatic relations with more than 30 countries," Trinh said.

"The only way to settle the political situation in South Vietnam is for the political forces there to strive to achieve national concord."

Defense Gives Summation In County Murder Trial

By JON POWERS

KINGSTON
Defense Counsel Joshua Koplovitz today gave his summation before an 11-man, one-woman jury in the murder trial of 25-year-old William Edward Hill. District Attorney Francis J. Vogt followed Koplovitz. County Court Judge Raymond J. Mino was expected to deliver his charge to the jury before the end of today's session. Testimony in the week-long murder trial ended Monday.

Koplovitz addressed the jury for 1½ hours today, and suggested repeatedly that Robert Hedrick, not Hill, had a motive for murdering 67-year-old Mrs. Alice Upright on Aug. 15, 1972. The court-appointed Woodstock attorney dwelled at length on testimony Hedrick gave last week implicating his step brother (Hill) in the murder.

Koplovitz said that "a reasonable doubt can be found solely in the testimony of Robert Hedrick." He termed Hedrick "a shy," "timid," and "reticent."

At the same time Koplovitz described the defendant as "shy," "timid," and "reticent." Koplovitz said there was "one ultimate issue" that the jury must decide: "has the prosecution failed or succeeded in proving the guilt of William Hill beyond a reasonable doubt." Koplovitz admitted that the "evidence tends to point to Hill, but he told the jury 'we don't convict persons under our system of law on probable fact.'"

Koplovitz said the prosecution presented "strong circumstantial evidence," but said that "stealing a battery is not the same as murder."

Koplovitz took strong exception during his summation to earlier testimony by Senior BCI Investigator Michael Lisman. He maintained that Lisman made numerous errors in his testimony, and contended "there is a reasonable doubt whether the defendant committed this crime."

In a move that surprised many court observers Monday, Koplovitz called Hill to the stand to testify in his own defense. And Hill adamantly denied that he murdered Mrs. Upright.

The defendant testified that his car broke down near an abandoned feed mill on Cottekill Road the night of Aug. 15. He said his step-brother, Robert Hedrick, was with him at the time.

Hill told the court that he left Hedrick at the car and walked a short distance down Cottekill Road, then stopped at the Donald Berryann residence to telephone his sister-in-law for assistance.

His sister-in-law couldn't offer any help, said Hill, so he started walking back to the car. Hill testified that he then tried to steal a battery out of a truck parked in one of the driveway's near the Upright home, but couldn't loosen the battery's mountings, so he returned to his car for a pair of pliers.

Hill said his step-brother was gone when he returned to the car, and testified that he didn't see Hedrick again until the following morning.

But under intense cross examination by Vogt, Hill altered his story. He said Hedrick "could have been there" when he returned to the car to get the pliers, that he "couldn't remember."

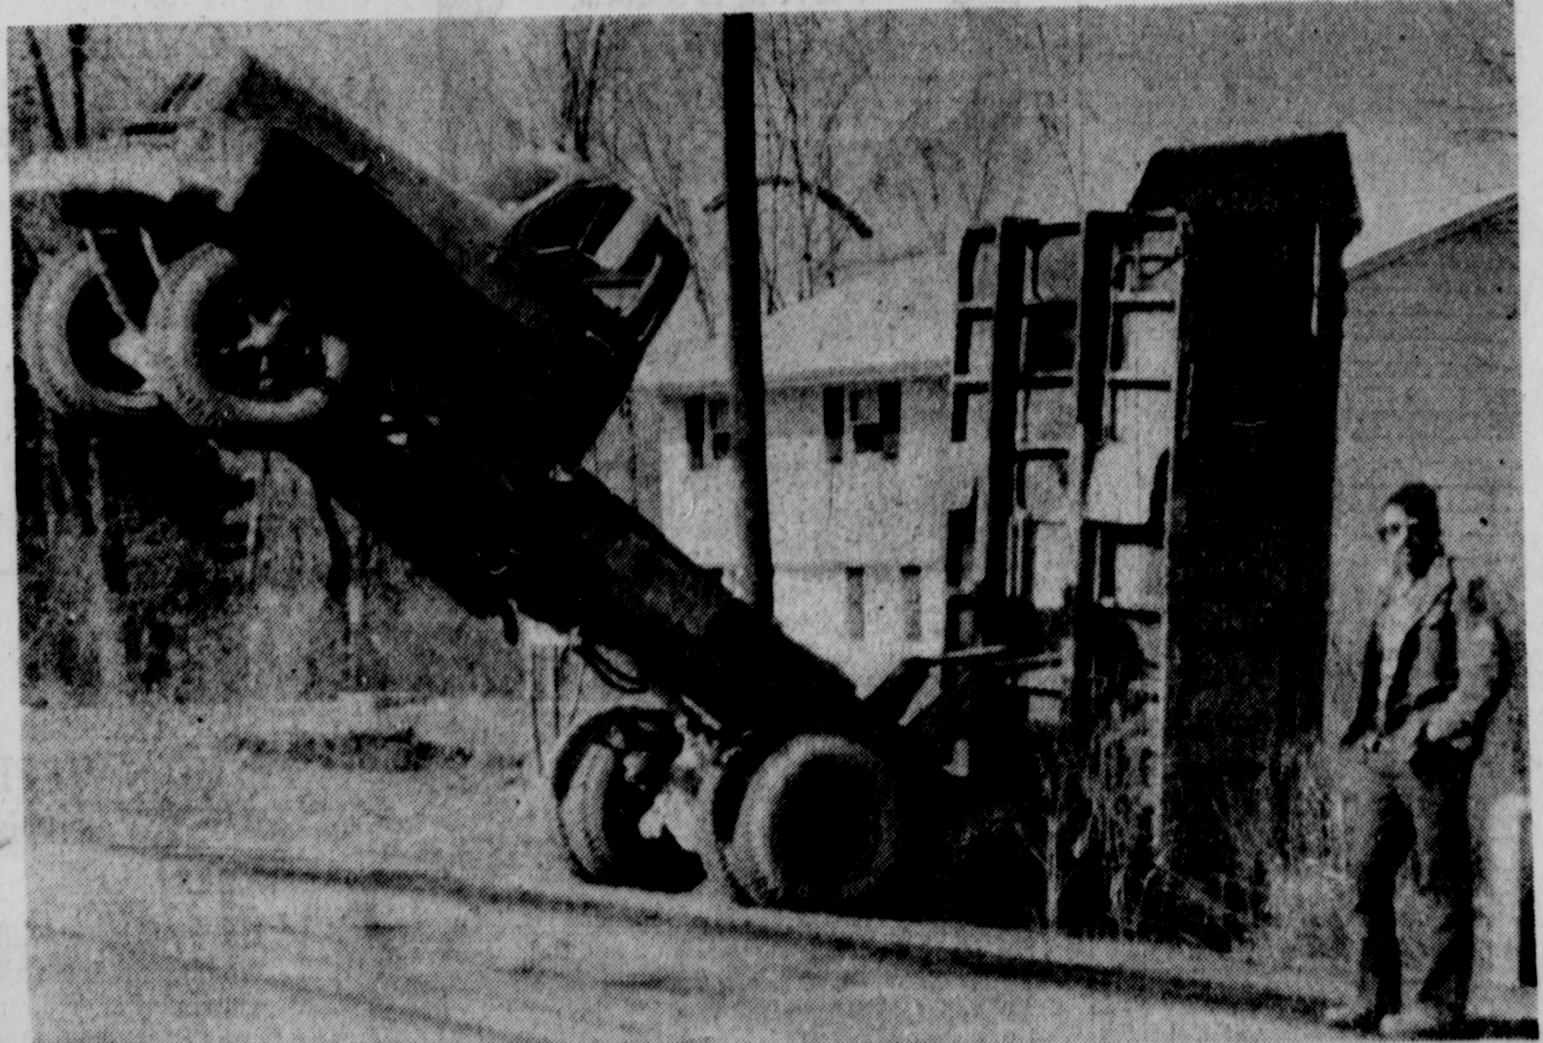

But Hill emphasized that Hedrick was definitely not at the car when he returned a second time, after stealing the battery.

Hill testified that he left the Cottekill Road area that night without his step-brother, but saw him the next morning in Newburgh. Hill told Vogt that, "It never entered my mind" to ask Hedrick where he went the night before, or whether he was involved in the murder.

Under cross examination Monday, Vogt suggested to Hill that the telephone call from the Berryann residence was just a "pretext" to get into the home so he could rob and murder Mrs. Berryann, but when he saw the woman's husband, he quickly changed his plans. Hill denied that allegation.

In contrast to earlier testimony by state police officials, Hill said he was never offered any food during the long hours of interrogation at the state police barracks in Horseheads, N. Y., after his arrest on Aug. 21. And, he said he didn't fully understand his constitutional rights, and wasn't aware that his oral confession could be used against him in court.

Hill again reiterated that he confessed to the murder to protect his step-brother.

City Bus Still Running in Red, but

By HUGH REYNOLDS
KINGSTON

The city's one-bus mass transit system ran in the red to the tune of just over $2,500 last year, Mayor Francis R. Koenig announced today.

But the mayor says he's not discouraged since the situation is improving when January of 1972 is compared with last month.

Jerry Ausanio of Downs Street owns and operates the converted school bus and is paid at the rate of $365 a week by the city. In addition, the city pays for the insurance coverage on the vehicle and its passengers which came to $1,065 last year. The bus operation itself lost $1,444.65, which coupled with the cost of insurance, adds up to a deficit of $2,509.65.

Koenig, in explaining the upward trend in revenues, pointed out that during the week of Jan. 24-29 of last year the bus line ran at a deficit of $154 for the week of Feb. 5-10 this year.

The increase in passengers was not the only factor in the upturn in revenues: the city increased the fare from 25 cents to 35 cents, a hike of 40 per cent, in April. That increase took effect on May 1.

Significantly, the line showed a profit of $194.10 for the month of May. Under the terms of its lease with Ausanio, the city collects any revenues in excess of $365 a week. If the bus line takes in less than $365 a week, however, the city makes up the difference as was the case, according to the mayor, in 33 of the 52 weeks last year.

Another fare increase could be in the offing if the bus line continues to lose money but Koenig says he wants a longer look before making a decision. "We've only got a year under our belts," he said. "We want to get a clear picture of the operation."

Rochester Landfill Controversy Rages

By MATT SPIRENG
TOWN OF ROCHESTER

The Town of Rochester is looking for a new landfill site because its present site is inadequate and could be closed down by the Health Department in the near future. That was made perfectly clear at a well-attended informational meeting called by the Town Board Monday night.

It was also made perfectly clear by a number of irate residents that the site which has thus far received prime consideration by the Board is not at all to their liking. Much opposition came from persons who live or own land near the proposed 30-acre site off Airport Road west of Route 209.

The negotiated price of the property — $75,000, or $2,500 an acre — was termed "ridiculously high" by some, and one man who said he was a real estate agent told the board that he was "shocked" at the price.

Supervisor Franklin Kelder, who was faced with insinuations of an underhanded deal much of the evening, admitted that the price seems high.

The person who presently owns the Airport Road site is Lester Osterhoudt, the town zoning inspector, which resulted in charges of an "unethical deal." "It smells worse than a dump does," said one man who opposed the purchase from a board appointee.

Kelder explained that the State Attorney General's office has been written, and that it is hoped a decision on the ethics of the proposed purchase will be forthcoming.

Several residents who live near the proposed site claimed there will be rats, flies, foul odors and polluted wells if garbage is dumped there.

At the onset of the meeting, Kelder told the more than 60 residents in attendance that the Board of Health, the County Planning Board, the Town Planning Board and the Department of Environmental Conservation have all indicated that the site is satisfactory.

Kelder said there is, however, nothing final about the Airport Road site, and that he and the Board would welcome information about other possible sites in the township.

The Airport Road site has a number of points to recommend it, according to Kelder. He explained that the soil seems to be of the type to allow proper drainage, that the site is centrally located within the township, and that there is material at the site which can be used to cover the garbage at the end of each day, which will mean a long term savings.

Another concern of persons owning land near the Airport Road site was that their property values will diminish.

One resident said he had a petition with signatures of 124 persons opposed to the site. He said the will present the petition at the next town board meeting Thursday night.

Several persons asked how long it will be before a final decision will be made. Kelder did not give any specific time, but did say that "it will be well-publicized that we are ready to make a decision beforehand."

'Prisoners Rally' Set

KINGSTON

Members of three local peace groups will participate in a series of events and demonstrations Wednesday in support of the estimated 200,000 "political prisoners" reportedly held captive by President Thieu's Saigon government.

According to Ann Costello of Rifton, a spokeswoman for the Emergency Project for Saigon Civilian Prisoners, "About 200,000 people are being held in South Vietnamese prisons, in the tiger cages and concentration camps for the crime of disagreeing with President Thieu. The civil rights of these political prisoners are guaranteed by the cease fire accord, and we are calling on Congress and the administration to force the Saigon regime to heed these rights."

The demonstrators will meet at Academy Green in Kingston at 2 p.m. Wednesday, and are expected to march down Broadway, displaying a "mock-up" of a six by eight foot "tiger cage" used, they state in some instances to hold as many as 12 prisoners.

In addition, a rice and tea meal of reconciliation will be held Wednesday night at the CUB food co-op at the State University College at New Paltz.

On Thursday, demonstrators will meet at Congressman Hamilton Fish Jr.'s Poughkeepsie office. The Congressmen will be given a list of 1,100 political prisoners held in Saigon, according to spokesmen for the group, and will be called on to initiate action in Congress to press for their release.

"Rep. Fish, and other politicians, will be asked to display the same concern for the welfare of prisoners in South Vietnam as they have displayed for the treatment of prisoners in the north," according to a spokesman for the demonstrators.

Also participating will be

Supervisor To Appoint Committee

HURLEY

Supervisor George Schroeder announced at Monday night's meeting of the Hurley Town Board that he will appoint a citizen's committee on revenue sharing to make recommendations to the board for the appropriation of some $16,000 in federal revenue sharing funds the town has on deposit.

Schroeder suggested that the money could be spent toward the cost of a new town hall, or to support the town's recreation program or for a study on a town landfill.

Members of the Recreation Commission wrote the town board asking for an additional $2,000 for their program which has been funded at the rate of about $4,000 a year for the past 10 years. Schroeder indicated his support of that proposal.

The Commission also wants the town board to give serious consideration to purchasing the property owned by St. John's Church in Stoney Hollow for a recreation complex. The church is planning to build a new facility in the Holly Hills section of the township. Schroeder said he has discussed that possibility with church officials. The church property includes the church, a recreation hall and "plenty of parking," Schroeder said.

Schroeder also announced that the Department of Environmental Conservation will hold a public hearing on March 14 at 11 a.m. in the Hurley Library on a proposal to build homes in Leewood Knolls.

Schroeder also informed residents of the town that his annual financial report for the town will be published in The Daily Freeman on Friday.

Schroeder said that the town is in "good financial shape" with the payment of a $5,000 bond anticipation note on the purchase of a loader. "I figure we're just about debt-free," he said.

John Hofer and Randy Kelder were reappointed to the Zoning Board of Appeals and Mardon Orsland replaced Frank Raffaldi on that board. Harold Graff was appointed chairman of the board, replacing Edwin Davey.

Woodstock Man Killed

HYDE PARK

Raymond Cagan, 56, of 99 Tinker Street, Woodstock, was killed Monday when the vehicle he was driving was involved in a head-on collision on Route 9G in the Town of Hyde Park.

State Police said Cagan apparently lost control of his auto and crossed into the oncoming lane. The operator of the second vehicle, Thomas Germano, 23, of Hyde Park, was listed in fair condition today at St. Francis Hospital in Poughkeepsie.

The mishap occurred at 8:30 a.m. Monday, police said.

U. S. Planes in Cambodia Strikes

Fighting Goes on Despite Cease-Fire

SAIGON (UPI) — Fighting persisted in South Vietnam, Laos and Cambodia today one month after the Vietnam cease-fire and nearly one week after agreement to halt hostilities in Laos. The United States ordered more raids in Cambodia and threatened to resume bombing targets in Laos unless Communists there adhere to the truce.

In a Hanoi Radio broadcast, the Viet Cong accused South Vietnam of more than 12,000 cease-fire violations during the first 27 days of the truce.

The Saigon command reported another 110 Communist truce violations during the 24-hour period ending at dawn today, raising the overall total since the Jan. 28 truce to more than 5,000.

In action involving Americans, U.S. F4 Phantom fighter-bombers hit Communist positions at several points along Highways 1 and 3 south of Phnom Penh in air operations carried out at the request of the Cambodian government.

Moreover, a U.S. State Department spokesman said in Washington, the United States will order a resumption of air raids in Laos if Communist Pathet Lao guerrillas there refuse to honor the nearly week-old cease-fire. U.S. planes carried out raids one day after the truce came into force when Communists launched wide-scale attacks.

The heaviest fighting in South Vietnam was reported in the Central Highlands and the Mekong Delta. The Saigon command said 48 Viet Cong and demoralized Cambodian soldiers turned in their weapons, left their positions on Highway 2 north of Saigon, and that 33 more Communists died in protest a government delay in paying them. But later reports said they returned to duty.

Fighting also was reported at the Mekong River town of Peam Chor, 50 miles southeast of Phnom Penh and the Mekong River naval base at Neak Luong, 32 miles southeast of the capital.

In neighboring Laos, the government reported its forces recaptured the village of Ban Pokheh, 33 miles from Vientiane. Communists captured the town shortly after the Laotian truce came into force last week. The government reported a total of 88 Communist violations of the truce since it began last Thursday.

The government reported 18 more ceasefire violations, increasing the total since the royalists and Communists agreed to end hostilities to 106. But the spokesman said only one of the incidents today resulted in casualties.

The Khmer Rouge, he said, now control nearly the entire length of Highway 2 between Phnom Penh and the provincial capital of Takeo, 48 miles to the south.

Field reports said nearly 100

Pentagon Defendants Acquitted on One Count

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "It was a real victory," says Anthony Russo of a federal judge's ruling acquitting Russo and Daniel Ellsberg on one espionage count each in the 15-count Pentagon papers indictment.

U.S. Dist. Court Judge Matt Byrne, ruling late Monday in favor of defense contentions that the government had shown "insufficient evidence" to convict the defendants on those counts, ordered the defense case to begin today.

He allowed 13 counts of the indictment to stand, and held in abeyance a ruling on two counts which involve transmission of the Pentagon papers to unindicted co-conspirator Vu Van Thai.

Defense attorneys had pushed unsuccessfully in arguments last Friday for a judgment of acquittal on all counts.

However, after Monday's decision by the judge, Russo declared, "By the time we get through with the defense, there will be nothing left for the jury to consider."

The first order of scheduled business today was the government's renewed effort to introduce in evidence Thai's fingerprints—a matter which will

'Just Having Fun,' Says Charles Manson

LOS ANGELES (UPI) — The Manson Family was just "a lot of people having fun," said Charles Manson Monday, returning to the courthouse where he was convicted of nine murders as the guru Svengali of the hippie tribe.

He had no reason to be angry with Sharon Tate, he said under questioning.

It didn't occur to him until after the murder spree had ended and he and many of his followers were in jail, that "a lot of people" did whatever he told them to, he said.

Manson, brought from prison where he is serving life sentences, was led into court chained hand and foot.

His hair, which once flowed over his shoulders, was cropped short. Barefoot, in faded prison denims, his wrists fastened to his sides by a chain around his waist and his ankles shackled together, Manson clanked through the hallways of the courthouse where his sensational trial for the Tate-LaBianca murders made headlines in 1970.

Manson was called to testify in the sanity portion of the trial of four followers. They were found guilty last week of trying to steal 143 firearms from a war surplus store, allegedly to mount a commando raid on the jail-courthouse building to free Manson.

Oswald's Widow To Get $17,000

NEW ORLEANS (UPI) — The government must pay the widow of Lee Harvey Oswald $17,729 for personal property seized by the FBI during the investigation of the assassination of President John F. Kennedy, the 5th U.S. Circuit Court of Appeals ruled Monday.

The court agreed with Marina Oswald Porter that she should receive collector's value prices for the letters, photographs, diary, wallet and other personal effects confiscated.

The ruling overturned a 1970 U.S. district court decision that had awarded Mrs. Porter only $3,000 for the items, which were used in the investigation and afterward placed permanently in the U.S. Archives in Washington.

The Russian-born Mrs. Porter, 32, who lives in a Dallas suburb with the attorney she married in 1965, originally asked for nearly $500,000 compensation.

Education Commissioner Addresses Publishers

Nyquist Issues Strong Defense of Chen

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — State Education Commissioner Ewald Sen. (James) Buckley (R-C-N.Y.) issued his strongest defense of the department's Chinese expert Jack Chen Monday before a meeting of New York State newspaper publishers.

Speaking at an annual meeting of the New York State Publisher's Association, Nyquist said he was puzzled by the recent publicity given to the hiring of Chen to develop a program of Chinese studies for the department.

"His appointment is no more significant now than it was when he was first appointed," Nyquist said. Chen's appointment was announced in August 1972 and received little news coverage at that time, Nyquist said. He claimed that the controversy started when Sen. Buckley issued a letter of protest to the Education Department which the senator gave the press 10 days before Nyquist received it.

"Rather than feeling delighted to have him associated with us. We are proud to have him in the front ranks of those in the front ranks of those who are protesting educational institutions which it than it was when he was first appointed," Nyquist said.

Nixon's urging that we take the initiative in breaking down barriers of ignorance and hostility which have separated our two countries," Nyquist said of the United States and People's Republic of China.

Chen's work, Nyquist said, will be openly reviewed and discussed by scholars. He said Chen's material will not be incorporated in a program for all state schools but will be used as resource information for schools that want to use it.

At a morning session, the publishers heard Clayton Kirkpatrick, vice president and editor of the Chicago Tribune, call for passage of "an absolute and unrestricted" national shield law for reporters.

Such legislation, he said, should give reporters the unqualified First Amendment protection he said they now lack.

"State shield laws have proved to be ineffective," Chicago news executive said. He referred to laws in 18 states which are designed to protect the public interest. But he warned that publishers have to go to work to restore their First Amendment protections and get a national shield law through Congress.

Speaker Duryea Against Insurance Rating

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Auto insurance companies would lose the power to set their own rates, if Assembly Speaker Perry B. Duryea has his way.

He favors a return to the old system, which required insurance companies to apply to the State Insurance Department whether the request was justified and established the rates.

The procedure is similar to that used by the Public Service Commission for utilities.

Duryea told a meeting Monday of the State Publishers Association that the open rating system did not fulfill its objective of encouraging price-cutting competition among automobile insurers. "The rates have increased and increased," he said.

The law permitting open rating became effective in January 1970. It is scheduled to expire this year, after a three-year trial period. "I detect a mood not to extend the law," Duryea said.

Open-rating also is permitted for homeowners, fire and other lines of property-liability insurance, Duryea cautioned that he was speaking only about automobile insurance.

In other legislative activity: Senate Majority Leader Warren M. Anderson differed with Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller on drug legislation. Rockefeller called for mandatory life sentences for convicted drug sellers. Anderson's plan would mandate life sentences only for "heavy traffickers" in hard drugs and not for every convicted seller, as the governor proposed.

The Senate passed, and sent to the Assembly, a bill that would establish strict standards for licensing bus drivers in the state.

Assemblyman Constance Cook, R-Ithaca, asked the legislature to repeal the automatic exemption given to women for jury duty. The exemption, she said, is based solely on sex.

Anderson outlined his drug proposal shortly before the legislature convened Monday afternoon.

In explaining his differences with Rockefeller, he said: "There seems to be legitimate grounds for marking the distinction between the organized crime pusher who trafficks in narcotics for commercial gain and the 19-year-old college student who passes a narcotic substance to a fellow student on a single occasion, without financial consideration," he said.

Rockefeller's plan would require life sentences for all purveyors of any quantity of a narcotic drug, hallucinogen, or amphetamine. It would forbid plea bargaining, probation or parole.

Anderson would mandate minimum sentences, without parole, for lesser offenders. The sentences and the definition of trafficker would be determined by the legislature.

Duryea said an end to open-rating as it applies to automobile insurance would carry out the mandates of the no-fault automobile insurance law recently enacted by the legislature.

The law requires a reduction in automobile insurance premiums. The reduction was expected to range between $14 and $20 a year per vehicle.

The law becomes effective Feb. 1, 1974.

Dem Governors Score Cutbacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Gov. Wendell Ford of Kentucky said today President Nixon's domestic budget cuts "make a mockery" of his stated goals of avoiding a tax increase, reducing inflation and shifting responsibility from the federal government to the states.

In a statement for Sen. Edmund S. Muskie's intergovernmental relations subcommittee, the Kentucky Democrat set the tone for what looks as a three-day Democratic assault on the administration during meetings of the nation's governors.

While Muskie's subcommittee heard criticism similar to that it received last week from a number of mayors, many of the Democratic governors attended a reception given by Senate Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield and House Speaker Carl Albert.

Ford, who termed his 26-page statement "a realistic, matter-of-fact assessment" of Nixon's budget, said the President's conclusion that the budget seeks to avoid a tax increase is "perhaps the most deceptive of the stated objectives of the proposed budget."

In contrast to the intent of revenue sharing to ease the burden on the states, the Kentucky Democrat said the budget forces state and local governments onto "their own resources to try to sustain programs slashed or terminated in the proposed budget."

Ford declared that Nixon "is shifting the federal deficit to states while increasing the costs of states to subsidize the rest of his budget."

Rather than avoiding a tax increase, the budget "actually increases the most regressive of taxes as evident by increased Medicare charges and costs to be borne by those least able to pay," the governor said.

A Republican witness before the subcommittee, Gov. Daniel Evans of Washington, bypassed specific discussion of the budget and testified on the need for governmental reform and transfer of responsibilities from the federal to state and local levels.

"I do support enthusiastically the concept and policies of President Nixon's philosophy of new federalism because I believe the implementation of this philosophy will result in more effective and responsive services to the citizens of this country," Evans said.

Others testifying before Muskie's subcommittee included Democratic Govs. Dale Bumpers of Arkansas, Jimmy Carter of Georgia and Kenneth Curtis of Maine and Republican Gov. Linwood Holton of Virginia.

Police Recover Paintings

RAVENNA, Italy (AP) — After a high-speed chase Monday, highway police recovered 18 precious paintings stolen from the Academy of Fine Arts over the weekend.

But a Greek vase dating to 460 B.C. was reported stolen in Sicily, another in Italy's current wave of art thefts.

In Ravenna, on the Adriatic coast, police said they recovered the paintings, estimated to be worth $700,000, on the highway from Ravenna to Forlì.

A car told to stop at a roadblock sped away and was chased by police vehicles. A sack thrown out of the speeding car contained the 18 paintings, two of them by 15th century master Taddeo di Bartolo.

Police cars stopped to avoid damage to the package and police said they lost trace of the fleeing car. None of the paintings appeared to have been damaged, police reported.

In Gela, a small seaport in southern Sicily, the vase was stolen from a private collection, police said. Value of the vase was not given. Along with the vase, thieves did away with other silver art objects from the same period, police added.

City Man Is Sentenced

KINGSTON — Thomas Ford, 57, of 167 Abel Street, was sentenced to a six month conditional discharge Monday in City Court after pleading guilty to charges stemming from a raid on his home on Feb. 11.

Ford was represented before man squad of Kingston police on the morning of Feb. 11. He was charged with illegal sale of alcohol and with unlawfully dealing with a child after persons under 16 allegedly were found on the premises.

Ford was represented before City Judge Hubert A. Richter by court-appointed attorney John E. Gottelli. Assistant District Attorney Albert F. Hrdlicka represented the people.

Offers Services

TOWN OF GARDINER
Claiming that Ulster County reapportionment which allows for multi-member districts is "unconstitutional," Town of Gardiner Supervisor George Majestic has offered his services for panel discussions on the issue throughout the county.

"The multi-member district is unconstitutional, discriminates against minority groups, and contains everything that is rotten in politics," Majestic said.

Majestic said he would like to debate the issue with members of the County Legislature who are in favor of the multi-member districts. "I think they owe that much to the people to debate the issue," he said.

Village Board to Open Bids

ELLENVILLE — unsafe buildings and that same time, same place, is set for March 1 and 3.

The village board will open bids on two new police cars on March 26. Mayor Robert Dowling announced following Monday night's regular meeting of the board.

Money to pay for the cars will be taken from the village's revenue sharing funds which total some $46,000.

Dowling also announced that the village has instituted legal proceedings to remove six

Man Struck By Automobile

DAIRYLAND — A man was struck by a car while standing beside his disabled vehicle on Route 52 in Dairyland Monday afternoon, and the driver of the alleged hit-and-run vehicle was arrested later in Sullivan County and charged with leaving the scene of an accident.

To Suspend Police Chief

ONEONTA, N.Y. (UPI) — The Oneonta Public Safety Board voted Monday night to suspend Police Chief Joseph DeSalva for one month without pay, after finding him guilty of failure to set up guidelines for procedures to be followed during a May, 1972, peace demonstration. The demonstration resulted in several arrests.

The suspension of DeSalva is scheduled to take effect March 1. His attorney, Elias Jacobs, said the board's decision will be appealed to State Supreme Court.

In a related matter, the board found Lt. Gerald Platt guilty of "neglect of duty" in connection with the handling of the demonstration.

Note for Experts

MOSCOW (UPI) — A note for the experts pondering possible ways of righting the leaning tower of Pisa:

The Soviet news agency Tass said Monday that engineers have restored a 60-foot leaning 16th century minaret in Uzbekistan by pulling it upright with pulleys.

owners are now being contacted. There are a total of eight buildings that will eventually be removed. Dowling said, four on Eton Court, two on Maple Avenue, one at Canal Street and Broadhead Street and one on Backman Avenue.

March 20 was formalized as the date for village elections. Voting will take place between the hours of 12 noon and 9 p.m. at the village hall. Registration, Patton was taken first to the Monticello Community Hospital and later transferred to Horton Memorial Hospital in Middletown. Hospital authorities did not disclose the nature of his injuries.

Death Ruled Accidental

WEST POINT, N.Y. (UPI) — Orange County Coroner John Greco has ruled accidental the death of Spec. 4 Michael Vaughn, 21, of Hendersonville, N.C., in a fall down a cliff.

State police said Vaughn, assigned to a unit at the U.S. Military Academy, had been mountain climbing with three companions late Monday along Route 218 in the nearby town of Cornwall when he became stuck halfway down the face of the cliff. Troopers said he elected to go down the cliff and slipped and fell to the bottom.

His home address was listed as 707 9th Ave.

'Mad Bomber' To Stand Trial

NEW YORK — George P. Metesky, the "Mad Bomber" of the 1940's and 50's, will have to stand trial in Dutchess County to determine if he is competent to face a jury, according to a ruling issued Monday by Brooklyn Supreme Court Justice Anthony J. DiGiovanna.

Metesky's attorney had asked that the sanity trial be held in Brooklyn, because Dutchess County residents were aware that his client had been held in the Matteawan State Hospital for the Criminally Insane since 1957. Attorney Irving Engel said Metesky could not get a fair trial in Dutchess County.

Last June, a Supreme Court Justice denied Metesky's appeal for a sanity trial, but that ruling was overturned last October.

Justice DiGiovanna ruled Monday that the trial should be held in Dutchess County, although no date was set. A new law now allows a jury to determine a defendant's sanity.

Bard College Trustee ...Humanitarian Award

ANNANDALE-ON-HUDSON: Fairleigh Dickinson Jr., a member of the board of trustees of Bard College, will receive B'nai B'rith's National Humanitarian Award at a dinner March 1 in New York City.

Bard President Reamer Kline will attend the event at the Waldorf-Astoria.

A former New Jersey state senator, Dickinson has been a member of the Bard College board since 1969. He received an honorary Doctor of Humane Letters degree at the 1968 commencement.

Active for many years in organizations dealing with problems of health, education, young people and social services, he is president and chairman of the board of trustees of Becton, Dickinson and Co., Rutherford, N.J.; chairman of the board of Fairleigh Dickinson University, named for his father; has served on the boards of Edward Williams College, Hackensack, N.J., Bennington College in Vermont, The Kent School, Kent, Conn., Montclair Academy, Montclair, N.J., and New York Military Academy.

Cornwall-on-Hudson, from which he was graduated. He is an Honorary Fellow of University College, Cambridge, England and has received the Order of Vasco de Balboa, Panama's highest civilian decoration, and the Brotherhood Award of the National Conference of Christians and Jews. He is director of the Pharmaceutical Manufacturers Association and of the Prudential Insurance Company of America.

The March Gold Medallion Dinner and Ball honoring

Dickinson commemorates the 130th anniversary of the founding of B'nai B'rith, a national service organization.

Admiral Chester R. Bender, commandant of the U.S. Coast Guard will be principal speaker.

Rosendale Dems Tab Candidates

ROSENDALE — The Rosendale Democratic Party, at its caucus Monday night, selected Paul Cahill and Tony Wade as its candidates for mayor and trustee respectively in the upcoming village elections in March.

Cahill was selected by a 33-23 margin over Robert Sheehan. Sheehan, although a democrat, has already been selected as the Rosendale Conservative Party's candidate for mayor.

Wade was unopposed in his bid for the party's choice as trustee candidate.

Also, incumbent Village Justice Wilfred Doolittle was unopposed in his bid for renomination.

Earlier, the village conservatives selected Mrs. Harriet Mulligan as their candidate for village trustee.

The Republicans have not caucused as yet.

The terms of Trustee William Ritter (a Democrat) and Mayor

Carl P. Grassi (a Conservative) expire this year. Both have said they will not seek reelection.

Cahill was nominated at Monday's caucus by Trustee Mrs. Barbara DeStefano; Sheehan was nominated by former Village Mayor Joseph Reid.

Following the caucus, the Democratic Party stated: "In nominating Paul Cahill for mayor, the Democrats have selected a man not only to head the Democratic ticket but also to go on and provide the effective leadership necessary for that office."

City Firemen Answer Alarm

KINGSTON

Kingston firemen were summoned to L and M Auto Parts, 222 East Strand, at 2:02 p. m. Monday when a fire started in a group of cars being dismantled.

Gasoline from a car being taken apart with an acetylene torch spilled out and was ignited by the torch, sending up a dense cloud of smoke and setting fire to three cars. Two were totally burned and the third partially damaged, firemen said.

Firemen from Engine Three company extinguished the fire with 1½-inch hose lines and were back on station at 3:04 p. m.

Firemen were called again at 7:01 p. m. when a car owned by Arthur Isabella of 98 Pearl Street caught fire at the intersection of Linderman Avenue and Wall Street.

The fire was extinguished with booster lines after damaging the engine compartment and fire wall. Firemen were back on station at 7:36 p. m.

Fire Destroys New Home

PINE HILL

Fire totally destroyed an unoccupied new home in a housing development near Pine Hill shortly before noon Monday.

Chief Everett Goins and crew of Pine Hill firemen found the house fully involved when they arrived and concentrated their efforts on saving nearby structures.

The house, recently completed, is owned by Robert Schmur, a developer who is building homes in the Chelsea Park tract on Route 28.

Fire officials said the fire was suspicious in origin and that the cause is being investigated.

Investigating Burglaries

KINGSTON

Kingston detectives are investigating three burglaries reported Monday, including two of apartments on Stuyvestant Street.

Patricia Schoonmaker of 22 Stuyvestant Street reported that someone had entered her apartment and taken a television set of undetermined value. There was no sign of forced entry, police said.

The apartment of Patricia Coddington at 32 Stuyvestant Street was entered by unlocking the front door. A stereo player and two speakers valued at $200 were reported missing.

The third burglary occurred at the Veterans of Foreign Wars Hall, 222 Delaware Avenue, where someone broke a window near the bar to gain entry.

Several vending machines were pried open and the coin boxes rifled, detectives reported.

Meanwhile, Deputies Charles Brodhead and Richard Bazelow of the Ulster County Sheriff's Department were called to investigate an entry at a house owned by Richard Thomas of Box 66A, Ulster Avenue, Ulster Park, where entry was gained some time between 4:30 and 10:30 p. m. Monday by prying open the front door. Reported as taken were a record player valued at $169 and a television set worth $139.

Price was charged with assault second degree on a police officer as well as resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, and vehicle and traffic violations. Perry was charged with resisting arrest and disorderly conduct.

Arraigned before New Paltz Town Justice Rexford Schneider, Price was confined in Ulster County Jail in lieu of $5,000 bail for a reappearance on March 2. Perry was confined in jail in lieu of $500 bail.

An argument ensued, according to police, at which time Price was placed under arrest for disorderly conduct. He then allegedly struck one of the patrolmen, police said, and the

Paltz Police Arrest Two

NEW PALTZ

Two young Kingston men were arrested by New Paltz Town Police early today on multiple charges including resisting arrest, disorderly conduct, and in the case of one of the men, assault on a police officer.

Police said David A. Price, of Rondout Garden Apartments and Vincent J. Perry, 20, of 60 South Washington Avenue were stopped by two off duty patrolmen in New Paltz. Price was charged with six vehicle and traffic violations, and Perry was cited for allowing the vehicle, owned by him, to be driven by an unlicensed operator.

An argument ensued, according to police, at which time Price was placed under arrest for disorderly conduct. He then allegedly struck one of the patrolmen, police said, and the

Military Lottery Planned

WASHINGTON (AP) — A lottery for a standby military draft will be held here on March 8 even though it is unlikely that anyone in the lottery will be drafted.

The Selective Service System said the men receiving lottery numbers will be those reaching age 19 during 1973; that is, all men born in 1954.

"For the first time since the lottery was instituted in 1959, the men receiving lottery numbers will not face the prospect of possible induction into the armed forces," a statement said.

However, it explained that men receiving lottery numbers will be potentially vulnerable to induction for all of 1974. A processing ceiling number will be announced March 8, and those at this number or below will be classified to form a standby pool of "readily inducible men," it said.

Sen. Tunney, Wife Agree To Divorce

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. John V. Tunney and wife Mieke have agreed to divorce, aides to the California Democrat said Monday night.

The Tunneys, who have been married for 14 years and have three children, first separated last May when Mrs. Tunney filed for divorce. But they had since reconciled and were living together in their Washington home until a few days ago, a Tunney aide said.

Tunney's press secretary, Jack McDonald, said Tunney and his wife have agreed to seek an arrangement under which they would share custody of the three children, ages 5, 8 and 11.

Tunney met his Dutch wife in the Netherlands when he was studying law at The Hague.

Tunney is continuing to live in the family house in Washington. Mrs. Tunney has moved into a leased house elsewhere in the District of Columbia, McDonald said.

March Term

The March term of Supreme and County Court will begin Thursday, March 1 at the Ulster County Court House. Grand jurors are asked to report at 11 a. m. and trial jurors at 9:30 a. m. Justice John L. Larkin will preside during Part I of Supreme Court and Justice William F. Christiansa during Part II. County Judge Raymond J. Mino will be presiding in federal and state income taxes.

Speaker Set

C. Lester Legg, certified public accountant and partner in the firm of Ronder and Ronder, will be the featured speaker at a meeting of Council No. 356 of the United Commercial Travelers at Roberto's Restaurant in Port Ewen tonight at 8 p. m. Legg, who is also secretary-treasurer of the fraternal organization, will speak on the preparation of federal and state income taxes.

OBITUARIES

Peter Stefan Vos — Peter Stefan Vos, 40, of Coldbrook Road, Bearsville, died Monday at Kingston Hospital. He was born Dec. 5, 1932, in Bussu, Holland, and had resided in the Town of Woodstock since 1955. He was employed as a toolmaker and engineer at IBM Corporation. Survivors include his wife, the former Karen Svalland, a son, Tako Vos, all at home; his parents, Johanna and Aart Vos of Woodstock; two sisters, Mrs. Hetty Crews of Columbus, Ohio, and Mrs. William (Barbara) Moorman of Glenford; three brothers, Sebastian of Holland, and Aart of Woodstock. Funeral services, under arrangement of Lasher Funeral Home Inc., Woodstock, will be private. Burial will be in Woodstock Cemetery. Donations may be made to the Kingston Hospital.

FALLSBURG gave Mike Hay his 30 points physically and you better believe it. It was a real battle in the first half played at a furious pace with the lead changing hands several times. With 4:09 left in the half, Mike Hay hit a current winning streak to 14 a jump shot to tie the score straight and rounded out its 35-all. That was the last time the score was tied and the last time Sullivan was really in the ball game. It was all downhill for the Generals after that, as Ulster defended their hosts to 32 points. Ike Chestnut finished with 23. Coleman (The Big) Link posted 21 and Bob Miller had 14.

Lind was the game's top rebounder with 16, including 14 defense rebounds. Jackie Knowles maintained his low scoring profile with just six points, but racked up 15 assists. So the stage is set for the Region XV tournament, with capacity crowds expected for the dark horse of the tournament, Rockland, with Larry Frazier and Wade Pittman, presents the first challenge to Staten Island Thursday at 7 p.m. Then it's Ulster against Greater Hartford.

So The War

By BRUCE LOWITT

Associated Press Sports Writer

No, the war, it seems, is finally over.

No, not that one.

The great conflict of national interest, mainly the one involving the national pastime, ground to a halt Monday—although it won't be official until at least Wednesday.

That's when Marvin Miller, outspoken executive director of the Major League Baseball Players' Association, meets with player representatives of the 24 teams to brief them on the agreement achieved with the club owners.

Miller and the owners' representative, John Gaherin, wouldn't disclose any details of the agreement—although plenty of them leaked out anyway. And it still isn't official. But the owners and players must ratify it. That, however, appears to be merely a formality.

For even as the announcement of the settlement was being made, players were already flooding into spring training camps to begin getting in shape for the season that will open—on time this year—barely a month away.

The agreement is not only preventing another divisive and

Wildcats Crowd Volunteers

By HAL BOCK
Associated Press Sports Writer

Kentucky was in the midst of a 111-95 Southeastern Conference college basketball victory over Alabama Monday night when the public address man decided to report Tennessee's 78-74 upset loss against Louisiana State.

Immediately, the partisan Kentucky crowd started shouting, "We're No. 1," and although the chant was premature, it could give Tennessee some food for thought.

The Vols' loss and Kentucky's victory shaved Tennessee's SEC lead to a meager one-half game over the Wildcats. The two teams clash head-on March 8 in the game that likely will determine the conference champion.

Coach Ray Mears viewed the situation calmly.

"I don't think one game is going to throw us out of the race," said Mears. "It would have been a lot easier if we had won."

Kentucky took advantage of Tennessee's slip by knocking off Alabama to tighten the race. Kevin Grevey's 27 points tied five Wildcats in double figures. Alabama's Wendell Hudson took game honors with 31.

Kansas State can do no worse than tie for the Big Eight crown after trouncing Oklahoma State while second place Colorado was losing to Oklahoma 78-68.

Minnesota won its 12th straight at home, trouncing Northwestern 90-74 with Roy WASHINGTON (UPI) — Major league baseball teams will earn a recordbreaking $42 million for radio and television rights this year despite the fact the Texas Rangers and San Diego Padres shape up as fiscal soft spots," a major industry publication reported Monday.

Broadcasting Magazine said in a copyrighted story that the projected total could go even higher because Mutual is negotiating with baseball Commissioner Bowie Kuhn for a special weekly game broadcast beginning in July.

The article gave this breakdown:

- National League clubs will get $13,560,000.
- American League teams will glean $10,825,000.
- The major leagues will be paid $18 million by NBC for rights to the World Series, the division playoffs, the All-Star game and the network's Game of the Week presentation.

The publication said the total for this season will be $1.3 million more than major league baseball was paid in 1972.

But Broadcasting took note of two major squishy spots in the broadcast melon—the American League's Texas Rangers and the National League's San Diego Padres.

As of last week," the article said, "the tallender Padres had no contract for local TV. The non-network station, that carried the Padres in the past is now negotiating for an ABC affiliation and will not commit any part of its schedule to baseball at this time."

Of the Rangers, who were switched to Texas from Washington by owner Bob Short a year ago, the magazine commented: "Down in Texas, where the Rangers' first season there was somewhat less than a financial and artistic success, there could be a reprise in the offing."

"The city of Arlington, which bought radio-TV rights for 10 years from owner Bob Short, tried to sell broadcast coverage through an outside agency.

Evidently, not satisfied in 1972, Arlington made an 18 per cent change in January and up its own broadcasting offer for selling.

"No sales are yet reported," Broadcasting said of Texas situation: "Lack of time to sell could be disastrous the next six weeks will prove tell that story."

The article listed these radio broadcast payments the major league clubs:

- Angels, $1.8 million; Philadelphia, $1.6 million; Cincinnati and New York Yankees, $1 million; New York Mets, $800,000; Chicago Cubs, $700,000; San Francisco, $600,000.
- Chicago White Sox, $500,000; Boston, Detroit, California, Oakland, Pittsburgh, Atlanta and Houston, $1 million each; Minnesota, $950,000; St. Louis and Cleveland, $800,000; Baltimore, $775,000; San Diego, $710,000; Tampa Bay, $700,000; Kansas City, $650,000; Milwaukee, $600,000.

Meanwhile, bird-ranked Minnesota moved a one-half game ahead of idle Indiana in the Big Ten race with a 90-74 victory over Northwestern. Kansas State clinched a tie for the Big Eight crown by beating Oklahoma State 91-67 and Austin Peay missed a chance to clinch the Ohio Valley Conference title by bowing to Middle Tennessee.

The shocker of the night, though, was LSU's upset of Tennessee. Mike Darnell hit five foul shots in the final 48 seconds to clinch the victory. Eddie Palubinskas, who led all scorers with 25 points, also hit a pair of free throws in the final spurt.

The loss left Tennessee at 12-3 in the SEC with three games, all on the road, remaining.

CHICAGO (UPI) — Alex Metreveli plays tennis for his next meal, a place to sleep and travel to the place where he'll play again.

He can't make a buck for himself, no way.

Metreveli is a 28-year-old Georgian from the Soviet Union who was voted one of the world's top 64 players and obtained permission from the Soviet Lawn Tennis Association to join the World Championship Tennis tour.

But the terms of the permission were such that whatever Metreveli earns goes to the tennis association, which in return pays his expenses. There's no personal income for the Soviet Union just as it is for the United States. "There are about 65,000 registered players," he said, "and it doesn't cost anything to play. You're on a team."

Metreveli took up tennis in 1955 because his brother, three years older, took him to court. Since then he's played in the Davis Cup and in 1970 won five tournaments. Last year he won nine. For six years he has been ranked No. 1 in the Soviet Union.

But, he said, in the next five years more and more from the nation will be on the pro tour. "It's growing at home."

NEW YORK (UPI) — The issue of "tampering" with coaches—which caused quite a furor when Don Shula left Baltimore for Miami three years ago—has flared up again in the National Football League.

The chief victims this time are the Oakland Raiders, who claim they lost two assistants because of "tampering."

Art Modell, the owner of the Cleveland Browns, wasn't affected in the latest incident but was so upset that he says he will ask that severe penalties be levied for future tampering. He said he will bring up the issue at the NFL meetings in Phoenix next month.

The first assistant the Raiders lost was John Polonchec, who quit as offensive backfield coach of the Raiders last February and later joined the Green Bay Packers' coaching staff.

The Raiders claimed NFL Commissioner Pete Rozelle fined the Packers a fifth round draft choice. But an NFL spokesman said Monday night that the Packers weren't officially fined.

"Oakland filed a complaint but the commissioner did not act on it," he said. "The two parties worked it out among themselves."

Oakland received a fifth round draft choice from Green Bay but it was originally announced as part of the deal in which Vernon Vanoy was sent to Oakland for defensive end Carlton Oats.

The Raiders lost their second coach Friday when assistant Ray Malavasi quit. Malavasi, 41, had been linebacker coach for the last two seasons since leaving Buffalo.

Coach John Madden charged "blatant tampering" and said an unnamed team had influenced Malavasi to resign. It could sign him.

The NFL spokesman said Oakland had filed an complaint in the Malavasi but Rozelle hasn't taken action on the case yet.

"Tampering" with a means trying to recruit a player from another without getting the consent.

The most famous example came three years ago when Shula left Baltimore for Miami. Rozelle fined Miami a round draft choice—turned out to be Don Mc—but when the Dolphins the Super Bowl this year, Dolphins figured it was a deal for them.

"Wouldn't you trade 1 for Shula?" owner Robbie asked during BRATISLAVA Czechoslovakia (AP) — Karen Magnussen of Canada took an early lead over Janet Lynn of the United States in women's singles competition as the World Figure Skating Championships got under way Tuesday.

Miss Magnussen placed first in the initial compulsory figure with 39.40 points and 15 ordinals. The American girl had 39.10 points and also was second in the crucial ordinals or judges' placement votes, with two more compulsory figures to be completed later Tuesday.

Karin Iten of Switzerland was third with 38.70 points and was third in ordinals on the initial figure, a right forward outside to left back outside counter.

With east European skaters strong favorites to defend titles in men's singles, pairs and ice dance, attention was focused on the blonde North American rivals who are the favorites in the women's soloist field of 28.

The women's winner, who will be crowned after Thursday's free skating finale, will be the successor to Austria's Trixie Schuba. She held the title the last two years but has since turned professional.

Miss Magnussen, the 20-year-old hopeful from Vancouver, won silver medals in the Sapporo Winter Olympics and the 1972 championships at Calgary, Canada, both times as runner-up to Miss Schuba.

Miss Lynn, who won bronze this year, is the only skater with medals in both 1972 events, is considered to be the world's top woman free skater.

choice.

"I have some very feelings about the tournament problems," Modell said. "I believe there is far too much tampering with coaches on the part in the NFL today."

"The one ingredient that made pro football great has been competitive balance. The quickest way to destruction is for NFL teams to raid the staff of other teams."

When Modell was asked why Browns' coaches have tampered with, he said: "No comment on the part of our club at the present time. I'll have a few more to say in the near future on this matter."

It's obviously going to be a hot topic of discussion meeting in Phoenix.

Art Stegen Selected For Biathlon Team

NEW PALTZ at the Cedars in Lebanon in 1972. Arthur Stegen of New Paltz has earned a berth on the six-man U.S. Senior National Biathlon Team which will compete in the World Championships in Biathlon, combining cross-country and rifle marksmanship, beginning March 1 at Lake Placid, Stegen placed 4th, 5th and 7th in the series of team trial races this past weekend at Lake Placid.

Stegen began his cross-country skiing four years ago as a member of the Rosendale Nordic Ski Club. Prior to that, he compiled an outstanding record as a track man and road runner at New Paltz High School and Morehead State University in Kentucky.

Among Stegen's accomplishments in a 2-hour, 45-minute run in the 1968 Boston Marathon. In skiing, he can boast of a 3rd place Class B finish in the 1970 New York State Cross Country Championship race at Rosendale and a third place in the U.S. Eastern Amateur Ski Association 50-kilometer (30 miles) race in 1973 at Fitchburg, Mass.

Stegen was drafted into the armed forces in 1970 and ultimately became a member of the Biathlon Training Center at Fort Richardson Alaska, where he succeeded in earning a place on an elite Biathlon Competition Team which competed in the World Military Championships

Stegen, a life long resident of New Paltz, is now a substitute French teacher at Hyde Park High School and is continuing his education at New Paltz State College. He is married to the former Susan Humphrey of New Paltz.

Another Rosendale Nordic skier, Kari Liekoski, made the U.S. National Team in 1970 and competed in the World Championships in Ostersund, Sweden. Last year, Liekoski barely missed earning a place on the 1972 Olympic team, having finished seventh in the trials.

The biathlon, first introduced in the Olympic arena in 1960, requires skill in both shooting and cross-country skiing. Skiers carry an eight-millimeter rifle, or one of the smaller calibre and ammunition with them. They fire one shot each at five paper targets on four stops during the 20 kilometers.

Competitors are penalized on minutes. For each shot falling outside the 4½-inch bullseye, they are penalized one minute. Two minutes are assessed for missing the target entirely.

There are other distances in biathlon events as well as a team relay competition, but all events follow this basic pattern. Walter Williams of the Rosendale Nordics is a member of the United States Olympic Biathlon Committee and at present is assisting the Lake Placid Sports Council in administering the complicated firing range procedures for the weekend World Championships.

Billie Jean Tops Casals

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Billie Jean King captured the $6,000 singles championship of the Indianapolis Women's Professional Tennis Tournament Monday night with a 5-7, 6-2, 6-4 victory over Rosemary Casals.

Several questionable calls clouded the match and neither woman would comment afterward. They are close personal friends and old rivals.

Red Hook Plays Highland; Sawyers Host Roosevelt

KINGSTON

The Ulster County Athletic League's regular season comes to a close tonight when Red Hook plays at Highland to top the area basketball card.

In other games, Saugerties closes out its season with a DCSL home contest against Roosevelt; Poughkeepsie is at Beacon, John Jay is at Lourdes, and Ketcham entertains Arlington. Rhinebeck goes to Pine Plains in a non-leaguer.

Red Hook and Highland each have their respective places set in the Southern Division, the Raiders fourth, and Highlanders fifth, so tonight's game will be a tune-up for the seasonals for Red Hook while the Big Blue will merely be playing out the string.

Saugerties, too, will close the lid on a rather disappointing season which has seen it win three times, only once in the DCSL.

Monticello Girls Too

Comets' Boys Win

McAFEE, N. J.—The Fallsburg High School boys team and Monticello High's girls won their respective Section Nine skiing championships here Monday with relative ease.

Fallsburg downed the Monticello boys by better than seven seconds, while the Monticello girls were comfortable 75 second winners over North Rockland.

Kevin Ward of Suffern took the individual boys title with a combined total of 76.48. Dana Iannillo of Monroe-Woodbury placed second. The pre-meet favorite, Gary Pavlick of Monticello was sixth.

Kathy Murray of Ellenville was the girls' winner in 81.40, just 3.1 seconds better than Rondout Valley's Jennifer Cullen. Sheila Klein of Fallsburg was third.

Herring Keeps Pockets Title

KINGSTON — you know what, he had to rally of 42, was left with a difficult Earl Herring launched the with an unfinished string of 23 break shot off the rail and defense of his Kingston City to beat Klindworth 150-128 elected to play a safety. It was Pocket Billiard title against Sunday at Chappy's Golden Cue. now 84-67.

fellow Newburgher, Max The victory was worth $500 Herring played a safety, but Klindworth with a run of 67. He and a trophy to Herring. Klindworth executed a beautiful led 83-1 after four innings and, Klindworth moved in with a run kiss shot off the heap, ran 14 and it was 84-81. Then came Herring's victory over Klindworth avenged the latter's win over the champion in the U.S. Open Qualifier at Elizabeth, N.J. last season. Both will compete in the upcoming Elizabeth and Newburgh Open qualifying tournaments.

Herring missed a long down-table shot and Klindworth pocketed 16 and 12 and after a series of scratches and safeties added 23 to go ahead of the champion 128-122.

Trailing 128-127, Herring showed his class by first completing a long break shot, then picking out a three-ball combination which set up the 27-and-out run.

Fish Wants 'Old System'

WASHINGTON, D.C.

Calling the U.S. Post Office "a profit-oriented monster, indifferent to the public and employees alike," Congressman Fish has joined in introducing legislation to return the operation of the post office to the Congress "where it functioned adequately and well for some 190 years."

Fish said that "difficult as it may be to face, from the results we have witnessed, Congress in 1970 made a wrong move . . . I feel it is time we defused this letter-losing monument. It is a responsibility we can no longer shirk."

Enactment of new legislation returning to the old system "would again make the postmaster a Cabinet level officer," Fish explained. It would return postal rate setting to Congress, but more importantly, it would again lay the responsibility for this essential service where it belongs — on the people's elected representatives.

Due to a number of political and economic pressures which peaked in the late 1960's, Congress in 1970 for the first time in our nation's history removed the U.S. Post Office from direct governmental control and placed it under a quasi-independent agency known as the U.S. Postal Service, Fish said.

The driving force leading to this shift was the development of the idea in many quarters that mail delivery should be looked upon primarily as a "pay-as-you-go" business, rather than in the historical concept that mail movement was first of all a public service vital to the operation of the nation, with the secondary drive that it should be as economic as possible.

To achieve the end of mail as a business, Congress stripped itself of all responsibility for postal rates, postal operations, and postal service. At the time this was popularly known as "getting the Post Office out of politics."

Unfortunately, if the drift which has occurred since the enactment of the 1970 Postal Reform Act is to be believed, that move most effectively seems to have taken the Post Office out of the mail delivery service.

Rates have risen, personnel has been slashed, and pick up and delivery schedules have been cut. The speed of the decline in service has been so swift but so sure that citizens are reaching the point where they express only mild surprise when they receive in mid-February, a Christmas card mailed in early December.

In a bid to cope with this deteriorating service, earlier this year, I demanded Congressional hearings by the House Post Office and Civil Service Committee to investigate the reasons behind the decline in service, the rise in postage rates, and the drop in postal employee morale.

Since that time I have become convinced that such hearings would not be enough. Congress, in 1970, too effectively stripped itself of all power, not only to control, but to oversee, the operation of the new organization.

Magistrates Install Lipton As President

KERHONKSON

Town of Rochester Justice Harold Lipton of Kerhonkson was installed Saturday night as president of the Ulster County Magistrates Association for 1973. He succeeds Town of Lloyd Justice Lewis DiStasi in the post.

Lipton, who served as vice president in 1972, was joined in the new slate of officers by Town of Rosendale Justice Albert Morelli, vice president; Town of Marlboro, Justice Pat Mataraza, secretary; Rosendale Village Justice Wilfred Doolittle, treasurer.

More than 100 magistrates and guests gathered in the Granit Hotel Saturday night for the annual installation dinner and dance. Guest speaker was Eugene Salisbury of Buffalo, president of the New York State Magistrates Association.

Salisbury told Ulster County justices that Suffolk County, which voted to replace local justice courts with a district court system, has now begun proceedings to do away with the district courts and return to the local court system.

Mrs. Brinnier, the wife of Attorney William D. Brinnier III of Saugerties, has been active in local, county and federal campaigns for many years. She is a charter member of the Town of Saugerties Republican Club, is chairman of Ulster County Mission 70's for three years under the State Republican Committee and is also head of the 18-20 year old voter registration drive for the Republicans. Mrs. Brinnier was chairman of the Ulster County Re-Elect (the President) Headquarters last year. She is also first vice-president of the New York State Federation of Women's Republican Clubs and is active in statewide Republican youth programs such as Teen-Age School of Politics at Siena College and TARS Day in Albany.

On the civic side, Mrs. Brinnier serves on the Board of Directors of the Ulster County Heart Association and the executive board of the state association, the Board of Directors of the Wassaic State School and has been listed in "Who's Who of American Women" and "25,000 Woman of Achievement."

Callahan, a resident of the Town of Ulster with his wife, Irene, has been chairman of the Town of Ulster Republican Committee for the past six years and is a former assessor in the township. Now a commissioner of the County Board of Elections, he previously served for two years as administrative assistant to the board. Callahan is a veteran of World War II, serving with the Army Air Force where he was awarded a Bronze Star in the European Theater. He has participated in many fund raising activities such as the March of Dimes, Cancer Drive and Little League. He is a charter member of the Spring Lake Fire Company and a member of the Town of Ulster American Legion.

Music for the March 3 event will be provided by the Howard Rusk orchestra. Tickets are available from James Rapp, president of the Young Republican Club, or from any club member.

The free checking account that's better-than-free.

We have a very simple theory in the way we do business: If you want to attract new customers, offer them a better deal. So, since we want you to open a checking account at Bankers Trust, here's our better deal.

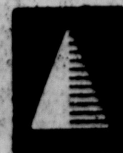

We'll give you a free checking account, if you keep as little as $200 in a Bankers Trust savings account or in a Bankers Passbook account.

In a savings account you're earning the maximum interest allowed by law. In a Bankers Passbook account you're earning up to 5.75% per annum. What's more, we don't require that you keep a minimum balance in your checking account, as some other banks do. And—you may save up to $30 or more in service charges each year.

That's why we say it's better than free. You save money. You earn money. Two very good reasons for opening your checking account at Bankers Trust, the bank that wants your business.

DCC Extension Approved

By TIM SCHUSTER

RHINEBECK The Rhinebeck Board of Education Monday passed a resolution approving the concept of having a night extension of Dutchess Community College at Rhinebeck High School starting this fall.

The subject was broached by District Principal Ralph Steeves, who has met with officials of Dutchess. He said that the arrangement would perhaps start off with a single course offering per week night, and would amount to just allowing the college to use a classroom.

Offerings would probably be almost all academic in the first stage, with needs-ascertained beyond that. Board president Hans Boehm commented that this would certainly be an improvement over the now defunct effort at continuing education classes offered by the district.

It would be the first major addition to Dutchess CC off-campus locations in Northern Dutchess County if implemented. No cost figures to the district were cited, as it was felt that they would be minimal.

In other action the board accepted the resignations of two teachers, effective in June. Robert Falisey, a secondary history teacher who ran for Congress last November in the 25th district on the Liberal Party ticket, was one. The other was Jean Merriwether, a fifth grade teacher.

One issue that touched off some debate last month was whether or not the board should furnish the names of 15 year old boys in the district to the Selective Service System.

The school has made this optional. Steeves said that the law stipulates that this not be done without the consent of the parent.

And Steeves added that this is the only list of students going out of the school for any reason. Mrs. Charles Hider, board member, suggested that the board hire an architect on an hourly basis, part time, for consultation by the Building Needs Committee. The motion was tabled.

Dr. Donald Carson, district business manager, said that the district has sufficient funds at present, and it does not appear that it will be necessary to borrow any, as some area districts have been forced into.

And he reported that a survey of the Chancellor Livingston Elementary School roof, which has been leaking since the school was built, has been completed and a report from Owens-Corning should be received in a week's time.

Paltz Public Hearing... Apartment Section Passed

By WADE BURKHART

NEW PALTZ The New Paltz Town Board passed a new section dealing with apartments for the town's zoning ordinance following a public hearing held Monday night.

The new section which deals with RV Variable Density Residence Districts, replaces the zoning ordinance's R-2 multi-residence district regulations. Both deal with apartments, but the new regulations is supposed to be stricter, allow for less density, and be more detailed.

The board made several changes in the ordinance as it was listed in the legal advertisement, some at the request of Town Attorney Wendell Harp, and two at the request of town resident Mrs. Martha Hobercht.

In the old R-2 section, the consultation with "public health authorities or the public body controlling such sewage systems" in setting up new sewage systems was provided for. Mrs. Hobercht said the RV section, as it was written, did not require the approval of the Village of New Paltz for new systems. The village owns and operates New Paltz' sewer plant.

At Mrs. Hobercht's very strong suggestion, the words "municipal agencies" were added to the section dealing with who has to approve a new sewer system.

Mrs. Hobercht also questioned the lack of required town engineer approval for storm water and sanitary waste disposal systems.

At her suggestion, the planning board will approve these systems only after the recommendation of its consultant.

She also questioned why the hearing was held on the night of a regular village board meeting. Councilman Dominick Sfragola said the town board had set the date, and only later found out it was the village board's regular meeting night.

Louis Fagon wrote a letter to the board complaining that the developer of an apartment complex would be able, under the new section, to deed his open space to the town and make the town pay for its upkeep.

Planning board member Dr. David Mesches said this was not so, that the property could be deeded to the town upon the approval of the town board. Both Mesches and Sfragola said the part about deeding areas to the town was intended to allow the town to accept such things as large park areas or swimming pools, and if the town accepted them they would be for the use of all townspeople. With the passage of the RV section, the town's moratorium on apartment building ended.

The moratorium on apartment building was initiated last summer to allow the planning board to come up with the new RV section. The moratorium would have elapsed March 8.

Mesches praised the new RV section as "one of the best pieces of legislation to come before the town board from the planning board in the six or seven years I have been on the planning board."

Village Registration ...Second Day Set

NEW PALTZ The New Paltz Village Board set a second registration day for voters in the upcoming March 20 elections, at its meeting Monday night.

The second registration day will be Saturday, March 3, from noon to 9 p.m. in the village hall trustees room.

Village Attorney J. Philip Zand reported that the village's suit to recover some highway taxes paid by village residents to the Town of New Paltz had been argued before Albany Supreme Court Justice James Gibson last Friday. Zand expected the ruling on the case in about a month.

Village elections will be held in the firemen's room of the village hall rather than in the trustees room. There is more space in the firemen's room.

In response to questions asked recently by village residents, Zand stated that the candidates with the two highest vote totals will be elected trustees. Mrs. Helen Karsten and Russell Bogie are running on the Cooperation Party ticket; incumbent Trustees John Logan and O. Lincoln Igou are running for reelection.

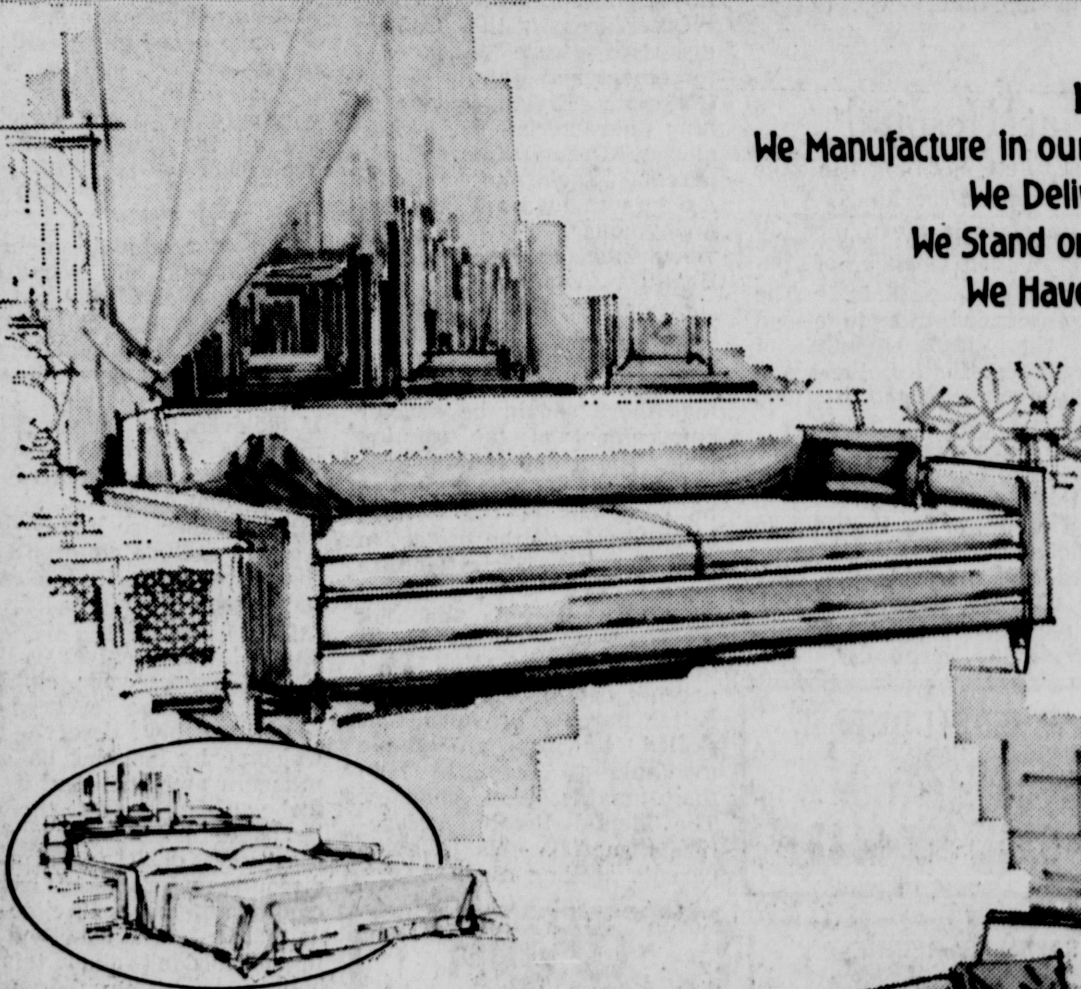

The American Legion was given permission to conduct a Memorial Day parade May 28, with the village board participating. The parade will begin at 10 a.m. on North Mannheim Boulevard, and last about an hour and a half.

A meeting has been scheduled for March 5 with Dr. Stanley Coffman, President of the State University College of New Paltz. Matters relating to both the village and the college will be discussed.

Child Abuse Studied by Kingston AAUW

EXPLORE CHILD ABUSE — Five who served on the AAUW panel exploring the subject of "Child Abuse" included (L-R) Mrs. Walter Broughton, Mrs. William Woodworth, Mrs. Robert Ellsworth, Mrs. Lawrence Bruck and Mrs. Walter Lastig. The Kingston AAUW Study Group presented the program at a regular meeting of the membership Tuesday, Feb. 20.

The Child Abuse Study Group presented their findings to the membership of the Kingston Branch of the American Association of University Women on Tuesday, February 20, 1973.

This Study Group found that all states have laws pertaining to Child Abuse. In New York State as in the other states, legislation makes it mandatory to report suspected cases of child abuse to the proper authorities. Any individual who has reason to believe that a child is being abused or neglected should notify a law enforcement agency to make a complaint so that action can be taken to protect the child. According to the New York State Association of Mental Health, more children in New York State die each year as victims of abuse and battering than from any other single disease or cause.

The panelists on Child Abuse based their discussion on readings and on interviews with people in the community. Mrs. Robert Ellsworth reported case studies of actual cases of physical abuse of school children. Mrs. Walter Broughton told about her interview with Dr. William E. Askue. Mrs. Lawrence Bruck had spoken with Miss Dorothy Grigsby, Director of Social Services at Benedictine Hospital, who stated that numerous children are neglected because of lack of knowledge on the part of the parent rather than intentional abuse. Mrs. Maureen Graham, Supervisor of Children's Division of Social Services, Ulster County, told Miss Bernadette Gaudette and Mrs. Thomas Celuch that the Children's Division investigate and provide protective services to prevent injury to the child and safeguard his welfare. They try to preserve and stabilize family life when possible. When the family situation cannot be improved or the child is in imminent danger, the Social Services Department initiates a neglect or abuse petition in family court.

Other areas of this problem discussed were Law Enforcement and Family Court; Children's Rights under the law; Characteristics of a child abuser; Organization to help parents such as Parents Anonymous and Mothers Anonymous as well as viewpoints of the Mental Health Association.

Conclusions drawn from this Child Abuse Study would indicate that possibly no new legislation is necessary, but that there should be stricter enforcement of the existing laws. The group felt that the public must be encouraged to be conscious of the welfare of children and the protection available from Social Welfare and Law Enforcement Agencies. Parents do not deliberately set out to neglect or abuse their children. Most parents can be helped to be better parents provided that skilled services are made available to them to help them make these changes. The Mental Health Association should be able to guide parents seeking aid.

Doing the Right Thing

By ELIZABETH L. POST
(c) 1973, Emily Post Institute.

Dear Mrs. Post:

In reference to the girl who wrote you about not inviting children under sixteen years of age to her wedding — I feel she was very wise in doing as she did in view of two recent experiences I had where children between the ages of twelve and sixteen were involved.

At my son's wedding reception, the mess made by these children was awful — food thrown about, glasses and bottles broken. At our twenty-fifth wedding anniversary, some of this same age group took plates of food from the buffet table and carried out glasses and took them home. The children were not invited but some parents brought them anyway and turned them loose.

I have heard much criticism on this subject, and the result is that more people want to eliminate inviting children. I am all for it after two bad experiences.

Mrs. S.

Dear Mrs. S.: It is incredible to me that the parents of youngsters between twelve and sixteen (or any age for that matter) would allow their children to act in the way you describe. And it is the parents' fault. If children are taught decent manners at home, they will have decent manners in public, too.

No wonder so many girls want to exclude children from their weddings when they have seen examples of this type of behavior at other parties! I can only say this: If you expect your children to be welcome everywhere, see that they deserve that welcome by insisting on good manners at home. And if you feel you cannot trust them to be polite and considerate all the time, don't inflict their discourtesy on others by including them — invited or uninvited — wherever you go. In short, don't allow this to happen to your children. It is only fair to them to make them welcome everywhere by teaching them the simple courtesies that everyone should know.

(c) 1973, Emily Post Institute, Inc.

DAR PROGRAM — The annual observance of Washington's Birthday, Feb. 22 took place in Wiltwyck Chapter House and members of the Daughters of the American Revolution heard guest speaker Donald McTernon, U. S. Department of the Interior, on the topic "Dwellings Built Before 1799." Greeting the guest at Wiltwyck Chapter House (L-R) Mrs. Thomas W. Reynolds Sr., second vice regent and program chairman; and Mrs. George F. Dingee, chapter regent. Washington's Prayer was read by Mrs. Jessie U. Banks, chaplain, in honor of the occasion. Mrs. Warren A. Russell was chairman of refreshments.

Official Visit to Kingston Slated

MRS. R. T. WELLINGTON
(Carol Studios)

Department President of American Legion Auxiliary, Mrs. Raymond T. Wellington, will make her official visit at American Legion Department Commander and Presidents Dinner-Dance Saturday, March 10, at Rosendale-Tillon Post No. 1219.

Mrs. Wellington has a long and distinguished history of service in the Auxiliary. Through her years of experience, she is familiar with all phases of Auxiliary programs and has served as committee chairman of all the major committees of the American Legion Auxiliary.

On the Department level, she has served as vice chairman of Poppy Committee, Housemother of Girls State for four years, Americanism chairman for two years, Children and Youth chairman, Veterans Affairs and Rehabilitation chairman, and led New York Department to its goal as membership chairman.

Mrs. Wellington is a resident of Nassau County, a native of Brooklyn, and maintains her membership in Kingston Highway Unit No. 1358.

Reservations for the dinner-dance may be made by contacting Edward Connolly, chairman, Mrs. Raymond Helmich, committee member, both of Rosendale, or any Post Commander.

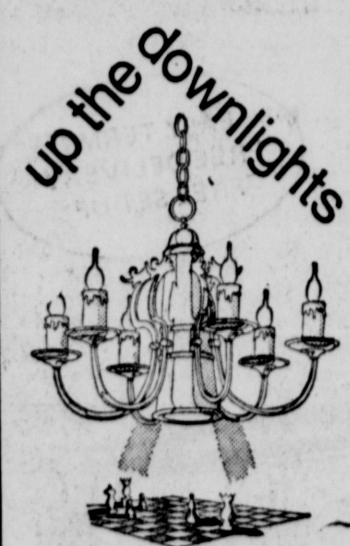

LOCAL OFFICERS ELECTED — At the February 20th dinner-meeting of Kingston Hairdressers Association, Affiliate 69, the following were installed as officers: (L-R) Irene Mance, president; Tony Megna, vice president; Carol Nealis, treasurer; April Miller, corresponding secretary; and Pauline Schlosser, recording secretary. Also accepting posts for the coming year were Joseph Donato, membership chairman; Carol Dawber, public relations chairman; and Shirley Keener, chairman, National Beauty Salon Week. A skit by Shirley Keener and Tony Megna was presented and participating were April Miller, Tony Megna, Miss Keener and Carol Dawber. Local 69 is affiliated with the National Hairdressers and Cosmetologists Association. The group meets every third Tuesday of the month. Program activities for the future will include films on haircutting, demonstrations, workshops and guest speakers. (Freeman photo by Haines)

Irish Republic...Election Set Wednesday

DUBLIN (AP) — If Jack Lynch, a mild-mannered and retiring lawyer, loses Wednesday's general election, his job as prime minister of the Irish Republic will go to Liam Cosgrave, another mild-mannered and retiring lawyer.

Flamboyance counts for nothing in modern Irish politics. The Irish these days like to see themselves as sober, industrious and sensible people. And sobriety, industry and sensibility are the qualities they look for in their political leaders.

Cosgrave is 52 and the leader of Fine Gael, which literally means Tribe of Gaels and generally is translated as Irish Party. His party first took power after the partition of Ireland in 1922. But in the past 40 years it has held office for only six years, and then only at the head of coalition governments.

Cosgrave now is bidding for power again in coalition with Laborites led by Brendan Corish. Irish elections are hard to predict, but the professionals give the coalition a real chance of ousting Lynch's Fianna Fail, or Soldiers of Destiny.

Cosgrave, the son of a former prime minister, has all the right credentials for an Irish political leader.

His biggest personal interest, and that of his wife, is horses. They live at Naas in County Kildare, the heartland of the Irish bloodstock industry. They met on the rails at the races and are most often pictured at the hunt.

Cosgrave's big moment politically came in 1970 when he stood up in the Dail, Ireland's parliament, to accuse members of Lynch's cabinet of involvement in a gun-running plot. The guns were intended for Northern Ireland, where the outlawed Irish Republican Army is fighting to unite the province with the republic.

Lynch had to fire some of his most powerful aides, and his party still has not fully recovered from the dissension that resulted.

Twice last year, however, Cosgrave had his own party problems. A rebel faction looked likely to oppose Irish entry into the European Common Market, a cause which Cosgrave passionately supported. And he was close to splitting the party in December over Lynch's bill to toughen the law against the IRA. Many of the 50 Laborites in the Dail charged that the bill gave too much power to the police and the government.

Cosgrave had been demanding action against the IRA and felt he could not oppose the legislation. In the end he held the party together and got it to abstain from the vote.

GENERAL TENDENCIES:

Look into what needs to be changed and let it happen in its own way and time, if you want to avoid some pretty upsetting conditions. Cyclic changes are in progress and you could make some big mistake if you try to hurry them up on the one hand, or delay them on the other hand. A fine chart for organizational jobs.

ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 19) Using tact when dealing with a bigwig is important or you lose this valuable friendship or support. Take it easy in p.m. Try not to exaggerate with others.

TAURUS (Apr. 20 to May 20) Listen to new ideas and views even if they are somewhat astonishing, then make up your own mind about them and do what you think is best. You can gain public acclaim now. Take more time for that special work you have to do.

GEMINI (May 21 to June 21) You are sure of what your responsibilities are now, and can discharge them with speed and efficiency. Mate is in a mood for dramatics. Sit back and enjoy it all. Don't get flustered.

MOON CHILDREN (June 22 to July 21) Try to understand better what close tie expects of you and aim to please without a lot of fuss and feathers. Gain more goodwill from the public in general also. Avoid one who threatens your marriage, if you are married.

LEO (July 22 to Aug. 21) If you use adroit methods, you find you can put all that work behind you most efficiently. Don't do anything that will jeopardize your health, or waste time foolishly.

VIRGO (Aug. 22 to Sept. 22) Get into the fascinating activities that make your life far more worthwhile and feel happy. You can start a whole new set of conditions that are very much to your liking. Take time to listen to your radio in p.m. before your retire.

LIBRA (Sept. 23 to Oct. 22) If you do not use charm and tact at home there could be some big argument that would be unfortunate. Try to get at the cause of things and eliminate it quietly. Make time for more recreation in the future, as well as in p.m.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23 to Nov. 21) Much care in driving must be exercised if you are to avoid potential danger, expense. You have errands to do that should be handled carefully also. Avoid that individual who always seems to have an axe to grind.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 22 to Dec. 21) Add to income by selling items you have that you don't need any longer. Contact an adviser who has fine conservative ideas to impart to you. Follow through on them and you come out the winner.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20) You think that by making radical changes you will improve your lot in life right now, but this is not the case. Don't enter into some group affair that could lead to real trouble. Count your blessings and all is fine.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19) Don't disturb associates with your ideas right now but work on them yourself until they are perfected. Not a good day to get out to new activities, so wait for a better one. Home best in p.m.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20) Think over changes to be made soon, but don't take any action on them yet. Help others to accept a new order of things in a matter-of-fact way. Do something of a philanthropic nature in p.m.

IF YOUR CHILD IS BORN TODAY . . . he or she will be one of those fascinating young people with a quick mind and much energy. Will be apt to want to jump from one objective to another too swiftly. Jean Adams' TEEN FORUM

AT FAULT: (Q) I don't have anyone to blame but myself. One night I drank too much beer and got to feeling and talking big and I told my girl friend off and broke up with her.

Now I have quit beer, and I have tried everything to get her back. I try to talk to her after school. I try to call her on the phone. She won't listen to me.

Before I broke it up, she told me she loved me. I still love her. I am planning to give her a gift for her birthday. Maybe she will listen to me when I give it to her. Do you think she will?

SORRY IN TEXAS

(A) You must understand that to her you are no longer the same boy she used to love. In her mind you are a different boy. She has seen another side of you and she doesn't like it.

This is a big handicap to overcome, and a gift is not likely to be enough to do the job. But it may help. If she listens to you, tell her you are willing to try to be the same boy you were before the breakup. Ask her to help you. She may be willing. Good luck.

NO DRIVING: (Q) I've had a $50 driving course and have had my permit for three months, but my mother and father will not let me touch our car.

At first they said I could drive on Sundays. But when Sunday came it was no go.

They let me do other big things. Then went on a vacation and left me in charge of the whole house and the cooking, washing and ironing for three brothers, one sister and my uncle. Also all the other house work.

This, I feel, shows they have faith in me. It also shows I'm responsible.

But when it comes to driving, they don't trust me. I am angry. Please help.

17 IN PENNSYLVANIA

(A) Your letter tells me there is a lot of work at your house, many errands to be run. Offer to start out by doing only driving chores — going to the supermarket, taking the younger children to school, any driving job that is needed.

This should help win your mother over. If you get an agreement on this kind of driving, stick to it. Do not budge. Do not slip in a visit to a friend's house. Do just the driving necessary to do the job assigned.

After a month or so of this, start asking for wider driving privileges.

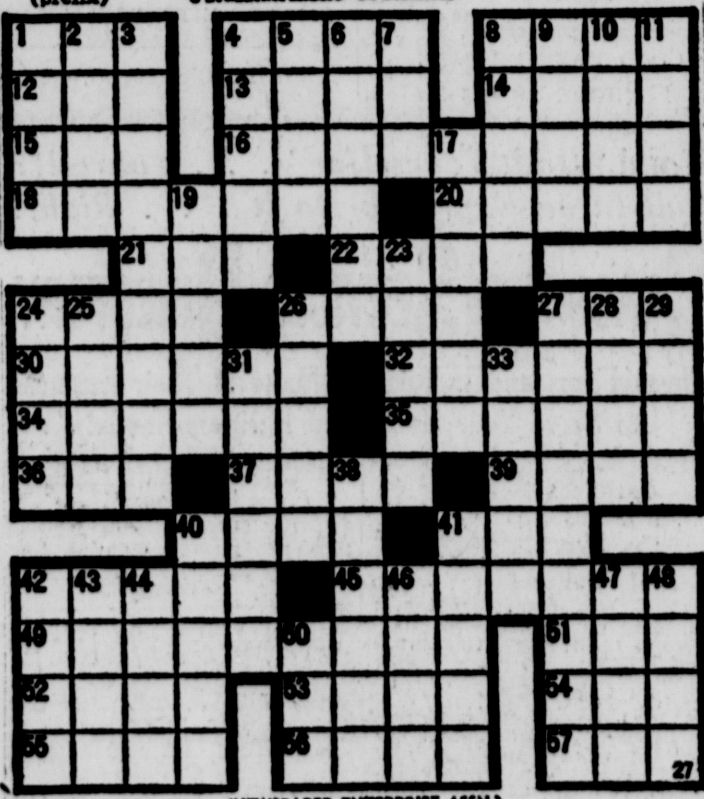

Your parents need to convince themselves that you can drive safely and well and that you will be trustworthy in driving as you are in other skills.

After they actually see what you can do, I believe you will have no more trouble about driving.

(Jean Adams reads and considers every letter, but she regrets that she cannot answer each personally. Mail your questions or comments to Jean Adams, care of The Daily Freeman, P.O. Box 2402, Houston, Texas 77001.)

Friendly, but Not Obscure

HOLLYWOOD (UPI) — An editor has suggested a piece updating some of the doings of Fred Friendly, longtime broadcasting executive and partner of Edward R. Murrow.

Friendly once was president of CBS News. Many top network television executives unwillingly find instant obscurity when they leave their lofty positions. But it is not in the nature of Friendly to be obscure.

Viewers will recall that he resigned as the boss of CBS News in 1966 after the network put on a fifth rerun of "I Love Lucy" rather than Ambassador George Kennan's testimony in the Senate Foreign Relations Committee's hearings on Vietnam.

Friendly later included a description of the events surrounding his resignation decision in a book, "Due to Circumstances." Beyond Our Control . . .

Nowadays he is Edward R. Murrow professor of broadcast journalism at Columbia University. And he is television consultant to the Ford Foundation.

Last November, a Times of London supplement marking the 50th anniversary of the British Broadcasting Corp. included a lengthy article by him and a picture of him and Murrow.

As expected, Friendly continues to speak out on the issue of broadcasters' independence. And his position as advisor for the Ford Foundation, which has funded various programs on non-commercial video, has given him a more visible platform for his advocacy of the public television network concept.

The question of whether certain public-TV programs will be renewed by those in key decision-making posts has, of course, been in the news lately. In addition, spokesmen for a non-commercial children's video series, "Zoom," have publicized its shortage of funds for next season.

"If the Corporation for Public Broadcasting doesn't fund the Bill Buckley and Bill Moyers programs, we probably will," says Friendly. "And the same goes for 'Zoom.'"

A "Zoom" spokesman earlier had sent out a press release mentioning that the Ford Foundation, the second highest contributor, to the series this reason (next to the CPB), had not yet been heard from. As for Friendly's work as a professor and some of the thoughts of his students concerning broadcasting, one of their points, he says, is this: "They say to me: 'Mr. Friendly, if you (and some others they've heard) are as depressing about government and economic pressure and market price pressure and scarcity of air time and how hard it is, why should we go into broadcasting? And I tell them: 'I won some battles, and I want you to win some more than I won. It's because of all these things, you mention that here's all the more reason to go into broadcasting.' I changed it a little. Murrow changed it a lot."

North's jump to three clubs was a limit raise. South decided that his 15 high card points warranted a rebid and tried three spades just in case North might happen to have four-card support.

North didn't have four-card support but bid four spades anyway on the theory that 10 tricks might just come in with spades as trump while 11 tricks at clubs might prove to be out of reach.

He was wrong on the second count. Five clubs makes easily since declarer can make five trumps tricks (including a ruff of a heart) plus four spades, plus two diamonds.

He was also right about spades. South had no trouble making 10 tricks there.

All that was required was a little mild restraint. West led out three top hearts and South just had to hold back the impulse to ruff. Instead he just discarded his four of diamonds which would have been a loser in any event.

Then all he had to do was to take the last 10 tricks with high cards.

MEANY AND CIGAR LISTEN — Labor leader George Meany has his cigar at the ready while getting ready to answer a newsman's question at the AFL-CIO executive meeting in Miami. Meany and the panel discussed the administration's 5.5 per cent wage guideline. (UPI TELEPHOTO)

Flexible Guideline on 5.5 Per Cent Pay Guide

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Nixon administration has signaled more-flexible enforcement of its 5.5-per-cent wage guideline during this year's heavy calendar of labor negotiations.

The White House announced Monday that, while the 5.5-per-cent standard will remain on the books, it also will use as a wage-behavior guide a broadly worded statement issued by an advisory panel of top labor and business leaders.

Nowhere in the statement was there any mention of 5.5 per cent as a standard for pay increases this year.

The Labor-Management Advisory Committee, a 10-member panel that includes AFL-CIO President George Meany, called for the average rate of pay this year to be "consistent with the goal set by the President of getting the rate of inflation down to 2.5 per cent or less by the end of the year."

The panel added that no single standard or wage settlement can be equally applicable at one time to all parties in an economy so large, decentralized and dynamic.

Treasury Secretary George P. Shultz and John Dunlop, director of the Cost of Living Council, praised the panel's work but denied it meant an end to the 5.5-per-cent standard.

Shultz said in an interview that he regards the committee's carefully worded document as "a very strong statement." He said the government will use it as a basic guide in looking at wage contracts this year.

Dunlop said there had always been flexibility in administering wage controls, noting that some boosts during the past year topped 7 per cent while others were below 5 per cent. He said the administration would be more flexible in Phase 3 than it was in Phase 2.

In Miami Beach, Meany said he was not surprised at the administration's decision to retain the 5.5-per-cent standard.

But the veteran labor leader it recognizes the food-price added, "We eventually hope to get away from the ceiling. If we're going to have a figure, it should be 7.5 per cent or 8 per cent."

The fact that Meany did not denounce the administration's decision to stay with the standard added credence to reports of greater enforcement flexibility.

The advisory committee said various government decisions, the committee said, "Strong and effective measures to increase agricultural supplies and to contain and cut back on non-essential wage decisions in 1973."

'A Tragedy'... Golda

WASHINGTON (AP) — Israeli Prime Minister Golda Meir said Monday she hoped there would be no repetition of the incident in which Israeli fighters shot down a Libyan airliner.

"The standing orders in our army are such that I hope nothing like this will happen again," Mrs. Meir told a news conference on her arrival in Washington.

She called the incident last week "a tragedy." The people of Israel were "saddened and shocked and there is true sorrow" in our country, she said.

"If we had an inkling that there were passengers on the plane nothing like this would have happened" despite the fact that the Libyan plane ignored instructions to land, Mrs. Meir said.

Mrs. Meir praised the role the United States is playing in the Middle East and called it "the perfect role." But she added, "I'm sure the United States is prepared to do everything possible to help—everything except one thing: to decide for the parties" or impose a settlement in the Middle East.

Mrs. Meir said that efforts to break the Middle East deadlock and last Wednesday's incident "should be kept apart."

Senate Committee Threatens To Cut Off Foreign Aid Unless ...

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate Foreign Relations Committee has voted to cut off foreign aid April 30 unless President Nixon releases $4.5 billion approved by Congress for domestic programs.

The committee attached that provision Monday to a bill authorizing $1.55 billion in military aid over the next four months.

The bill, which also prohibits spending of appropriated funds for rehabilitation of North Vietnam without congressional approval, will be ready for Senate floor debate later this week. The measure authorizes military aid grants to 64 countries.

But the bill would cut off foreign-aid commitments after April 30 unless Nixon allows full spending of appropriated funds for the departments of Agriculture, Transportation, Housing and Urban Development, and Health, Education and Welfare.

The amendment was sponsored by Sen. J. W. Fulbright, chairman of Foreign Relations, on a 9-7 vote along party lines.

As a weapon in the fight against inflation, Nixon is refusing to spend appropriations earmarked for various domestic programs in an attempt to hold down government spending. Both houses of Congress are involved in a battle with the White House over this impoundment practice.

Sen. Jacob K. Javits, R-N.Y., who advocates congressional authority to set spending priorities without item veto by the president, said he voted against the proviso tying foreign aid to domestic spending, on grounds it was an attempt by foreign-aid opponents to kill the program.

In a related development, the Senate approved an extension of foreign-aid spending until April 30. The same resolution carries continuing spending authority for the Labor and Health, Education and Welfare departments until the end of the current fiscal year June 30.

The spending bill was returned to the House, which had been willing to allow continued expenditures in both areas until June 30.

Present temporary spending authority expires at midnight Wednesday.

Suits Filed By Poverty Agencies

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Nixon's dismantlement of much of the apparatus of the federal anti-poverty programs being challenged in a series of lawsuits which claim he is acting illegally.

The suits were filed in federal courts here and in Chicago Monday by lawyers groups, community poverty agencies and employees of the Office of Economic Opportunity (OEO) the agency which has been running the anti-poverty program.

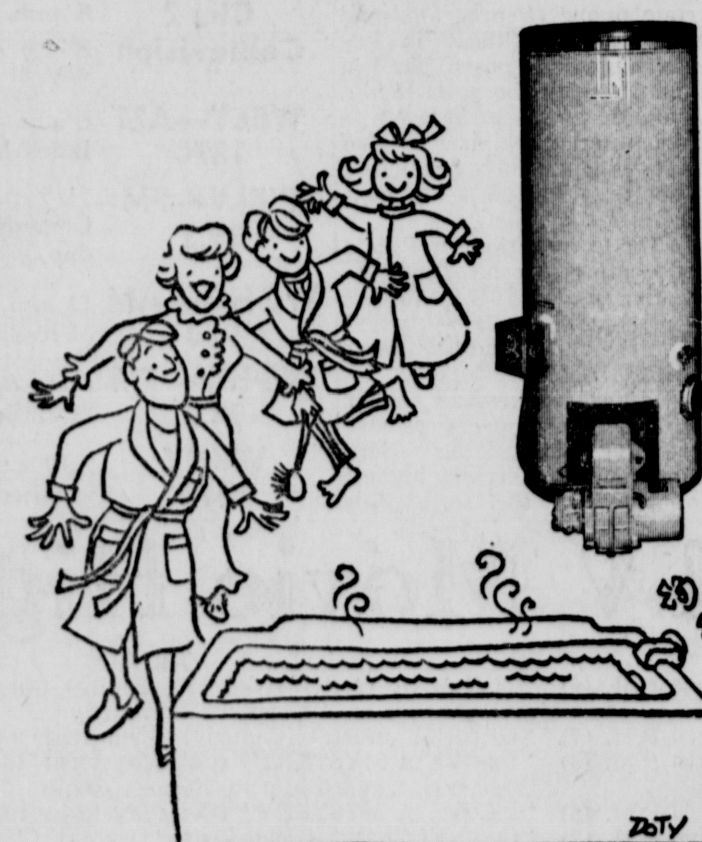

Nixon has declared his intention to dismantle OEO, to transfer some of its programs to other federal agencies but to give much of the anti-poverty effort back to the states and localities to be conducted under revenue sharing.

The suits challenge the legality of disbanding OEO and the ending of funding of its programs. Named as defendants were Howard Phillips, whom Nixon has named acting OEO director, with the task of dismantling the agency, and Roy L. Ash, director of the Office of Management and Budget.

Lawyers associated with the suits indicated that one strategy involved is to try to force a reorganization plan to be presented to Congress. OEO supporters believe that, if this happens, they have the votes to preserve most of OEO's programs. Congress has funded some of these until 1975.

One suit was filed here jointly by the Washington-based Lawyers Committee for Civil Rights Under Law and a group of community poverty agencies.

It delivers 30 gallons of hot water every 15 minutes.

It's a Mobil Thermo Flow Water Heater. With it, you'll probably have more hot water than you normally need. You can shower, run your washing machine, dishwasher, bathtub, or whatever, and the hot water keeps coming on strong.

For a Mobil Thermo Flow oil-powered water heater gives you up to 30 gallons of hot water every 15 minutes. That's 4 times faster than gas-fired water heaters and 7 times faster than electricity. Ask about our convenient extended terms planned to suit your budget. And that adds up to more economy.

The Mobil Thermo Flow is built to last. Glass-lined tank, heavy-gauge steel body, insulated in a 2-inch blanket of fiber glass. Ask about our 5-year tank warranty. If you want to save money on hot water, just give us a call. That costs you nothing.
